BRIDEGROOM'S BROTHER BARRED AT BRADLEY WEDDING

Girl Tells How She Was Wooed and Won by Ruth

By VIOLA BROTHERS SHORE

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service
Reproduction in whole or part expressly forbidden

New York, March 19.—Dolores Dixon, nineteen-year-old plaintiff in the $50,000 suit filed against "Babe" Ruth, today begins in the Boston American her own story of the love affair she claims she had with the world's greatest batsman.

It was at the home of a friend that little Miss Dixon told of the unfortunate venture she alleges she made into the field of love. As she finished the story she dug out of her suit case a photograph of herself in a checked gingham dress.

"That is the dress I used to have on most of the mornings he came up to see me.

"He says he doesn't remember me——" Ruth made a statement to the press that he did not recall any such girl as Dolores Dixon and asked who she was)—"perhaps when he sees the picture," she smiled a little sadly, "he'll remember the dress."

WITH HIM ALMOST DAILY.

Dolores Dixon is still only a slip of a girl, and one can readily see why Ruth might call her, as she says, "little watch charm." She has big, soft, shadowy eyes, with a wistfulness and an appeal which do not show in the pictures of her.

"They say I am trying to blackmail Mr. Ruth," she said, after she had told her entire story of the affair, "but I never asked him for any money. Never. He never gave me any—not even a present when I was seeing him almost every day.

"I didn't ask for money when I wrote the letter I told you about—the one Mrs. Ruth got hold of. I only told him I was in trouble and if he was the kind of man I thought he was, I knew he would stand by me and help me.

"I didn't have any money—and I thought he would send me enough to see me through——" her lip trembled. "I didn't see how he could refuse.

GIVES LIE TO WIFE.

"And Mrs. Ruth says she doesn't know anything about me. Why, I met her the same time I met Mr. Ruth last July, you know. And after I wrote to Mr. Ruth, and Mrs. Ruth called me up on the telephone that time after she got me, she said: 'Hello, is this Doris?' And then she began to abuse me over the telephone. I don't see how she can face

MYSTERY IN BRANDING OF CHILD

Did some enemy of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of No. 31 Laconia court, ynn, wreak vengeance on the parents by branding of the initials "E. B." on the left thigh of their three-and-a-half-year son, William?

Or, did some maniac suffer the hallucination the boy was not the Smith's child?

Lynn police are baffled by the mystery.

The little victim can shed no light. His only explanation is the repeated phrase, "Nig did it." No one has any idea who "Nig" is.

Thirteen-year-old Doris Wilson, an orphan, who slept with the youngster Friday night when the branding occurred, professes to know nothing. Her story leads police to think she was drugged.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS NUPTIALS

Kin of Canadian Who Weds Hub Heiress Halted by Police at Vestry Door

Boston's prettiest romance was marred by an elemnt of sinster mystery.

In the vestry of St. Joseph's church in Roxbury, Rosamond Bradley, Boston heiress and Lady Bountiful of the parish, was being married to Captain Charles A. Rheault, former officer of the Canadian Royal Mounted.

A crowd of several hundred gathered outside the church to get a glimpse of the bride and groom. She was sheltered as she entered the church, but the rain-soaked curious caught a glimpse of the bridegroom, striking in his uniform of a captain in the Royal Dragoons—plumed, caped, with a broad stripe of yellow on the smart blue trousers.

Then another car rolled up, and Emile Rheault, brother of the bridegroom, stepped out and started for the church. He was stopped by six policemen, headed by Captain Fitzgerald.

BARRED FROM CHURCH.

Heads craned on all sides along the street. Enterprising people of the section peered down from the roofs, using field glasses to get a glimpse of the wedding.

They saw a strange sight.

They saw Emile Rheault indignantly produce an invitation to the reception sent him by his brother, the fortunate man who had won the girl who had said to all her friends that she would never marry. They saw him produce other credentials. They heard him say to the police:

"I have come all the way from Sherbrook, Quebec, to attend this wedding, to which I was invited by my brother. Send word that I am waiting here."

POOR GATHER IN VAIN.

But no word was sent.

Umbrellas bobbed up and down as the crowd pressed about. The police fought to scatter them. With white face, Emile Rheault stood in the rain, braved the eyes of the mob to get a glimpse of his brother as he came out of the church.

The people talked excitedly about many strangep hases of the wedding.

For years Rosamond Bradley had

ONE HURT IN NEW HAVEN R. R. CRASH

Framingham, March 19.—Hugh McCabe, of Arlington, R. I., a fireman, was slightly injured and three brakemen had to jump for safety in a rear-end collision of two northbound freight trains on the New Haven, half a mile south of the station here, today.

Three freight cars were thrown down the embankment and caught fire from the coals of the locomotive. The cars were destroyed and the locomotive dimaged. The collision occurred in a fog. McCabe will recover.

TRY FATHER AND SONS FOR 'FRAUD'

John F. Jacobs, his sons, Joseph and M. Albert Jacobs, and Henry J. Lefevre, all of the brokerage firm of A. M. Aide & Company, No. 44 Bromfield street, went on trial today before Judge Brown and a jury in Superior Criminal Court. They are charged with conspiracy and larceny on eight counts, in connection with the alleged sale of fraudulent stocks to the sum of $22,000. They are charged also with paying fake dividends to lure customers. The principal witness was Pardon Russell, a seventy-one-year-old man of New Bedford, who testified he had been swindled of $17,000. Willard A. Cooper of Plymouth said he purchased $3,000 worth of the stock.

UPHOLDS U. S. RIGHT TO FIX COAL PRICES

Washington, March 19 (By International News Service).—The right of the United States Fuel Administration to fix coal prices was upheld today by the United States Supreme Court in deciding against the J. M. McDonald Coal Company of West Virginia, which appealed for increased prices for coal sold under prices established by the commission.

DELOREY IS OUT AFTER 14 YEARS

Convicted of Slaying Annie Mullins; Starts Fight to Free Mantir

Peter C. Delorey, who, with James Mantir, was convicted in connection with the murder of Annie Mullins in Squire's Field, Arlington, on March 27, 1908, has been paroled from State Prison after serving fourteen years. He was restored to his freedom on March 8.

Delorey was found guilty of manslaughter and was given eighteen to twenty years. James Mantir was found guilty in the second degree and sentenced to life.

Both were eighteen years old at the time. They have never changed their protestations of innocence, saying they were the victims of a "frame-up." Mantir is at present a patient in the insane hospital at Bridgewater. He was transferred September 29, 1915.

FIGHTS FOR MANTIR.

Delorey was transferred to Rutland camp on September 17, 1922, and appeared before the parole board on February 27. He surprised his parents, walking home through the blizzard four days before they expected him to be released.

Delorey has started a fight to have Mantir released. He says Mantir and he are both as innocent of the Mullins murder "as babes unborn."

He says their conviction and sentence was a grave miscarriage of justice which he hopes to have corrected in Mantir's behalf. Delorey says he will dedicate his life if necessary in trying to convince the authorities of his own and Mantir's innocence.

GOOD CHARACTER.

The Mullins murder and the trial and conviction of Mantir and Delorey constituted one of the great criminal cases of New England.

Annie Mullins was a Newfoundland girl of Irish extraction. She was employed as a domestic in the home of Professor Hans C. von Jagemann, a Harvard University instructor, at No. 113 Walker street, North Cambridge.

The murder took place in the Lon-

American First With News of Siki's Ring Defeat

Again the Boston American scores a big news beat.

The American was the only evening Boston paper to give its readers the result and round by round story of the big Mike McTigue-Battling Siki ring battle in Dublin on St. Patrick's Day.

A special cable and telegraph wire direct to the American office from the ringside at the Scala Theatre, Dublin, brought the story of the fight-heavyweight championship of Europe bout. When the Irishman was declared a winner the American immediately issued a Sporting Extra.

For the big news first get the American—three cents a copy, and worth it.

ACTORS IN "IMMORAL PLAY" TO BE TRIED

New York, March 19.—Harry Weinberger, producer of the Broadway play, "The God of Vengeance," Rudolph Schildkraut and twelve other actors and actresses who were indicted a week ago on charge of producing an immoral play, must stand trial, Judge Crain ruled today. He denied a motion for an inspection of the grand jury minutes.

BROOKLINE STREETS FLOODED

Water Main Bursts Near Coolidge Corner; Society Girls Flee

The bursting of the supply main of the Northern District of the Metropolitan Water Works system today imperilled several lives, caused thousands of dollars worth of damage by flooding of six cellars and tied up vehicular traffic for more than four hours on Beacon street, Brookline.

The main broke at Fairbanks and Beacon streets, midway between Coolidge Corner and Washington square. It tore a five-foot hole in the paving and shot a stream six to ten feet in air.

Miss Sarah D. Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Hall of No. 1495 Beacon street, widely known in society circles, was forced to leap ten feet from the window of the first floor after rescuing her pet Scotch collie, Prince.

BAR BRIDEGROOM'S BROTHER AT WEDDING OF MISS BRADLEY

been the most loved of women in the parish.

She had toiled among them, given them of her large bounty, visited them when they were ill. Many a baby in the neighborhood was christened Rosamond in her honor. Everybody thought that when Rosamond Bradley was married, her friends among the poor of the parish would be permitted at least to stand in the yard of the church, to get a glimpse of the bride.

But they were barred by the police. Reporters were barred. Only a few intimate friends and relatives were permitted to attend the ceremony, which was performed by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. J. Splaine.

The priest could not perform the ceremony in the church, for Miss Bradley is not a Catholic. It was for this reason that the vestry was used. It is forbidden to perform a marriage in a Catholic church during Lent. It was necessary to get a special dispensation from the cardinal.

SHIELDED BY WOMAN.

They talked about all these things as the bridegroom's brother stood in the rain. Suddenly he turned and started in walk away.

Reporters crawded about him.

"I didn't want my brother to see me," he cried. "I intended to go in and stand in a corner, and watch the ceremony. They would not have seen me. But now I wouldn't go in if they begged me to. Not if they dragged me in."

Somebody told him that his brother's best man was Frederick Alden Warren of Coburg, Ont. He broke down when he heard this.

Then there was another sensation for the crowd.

A woman, stylishly dressed, suddenly ran up to Emile Rheault, and placed her umbrella in such a position as to interfere with the focus of the battery of cameras that was levelled at Rheault.

"You shan't take his picture," she said.

She gripped his arm.

"Come on, Emile," she said. "Come with me."

The pair took refuge in a nearby fruit store. The crowd surged back to the church. They saw the wedding party come out. The bride had been snatched away. She leaned on the arm of her father, Robert S. Bradley, of No. 441 Commonwealth avenue.

The wedding party—there were about ten in the group—entered cars and rolled away to the Bradley home, where a wedding luncheon awaited them.

To the nearby fruitstand, the soaked brother of the groom made no effort to see Captain Rheault or his bride. The mysterious woman of the stylish attire and the silk umbrella whispered soothing words in his ear.

The wedding and mysterious incidents attending it is the talk of Boston society today.

To her husband Rosamond Bradley brings everything that makes a woman desirable—wealth, intelligence, charm and beauty. To his wife Captain Bradley brings the things that girls dream of—good looks, a dashing war record, an education that made him a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society.

In dry, official war correspondence this romance began in France, when he was a captain of the Royal Canadian Dragoons and she was a Red Cross nurse.

It was not until years later that the couple met. But their personalities had been written into their letters, for the official correspondence had been lightened with occasional personal comment, thoughts and experiences growing out of the struggle with Germany. And when they met neither one was surprised. They had never seen each other, but they both knew.

BRIDE SOCIETY FAVORITE.

Miss Bradley made her social debut in 1906. She was the choice plum of the debutante crop of that season and everybody expected she would be "a matron of the younger set" before the season was over.

Courted, much-sought, much admired, much propounded-to, this had waited. She was not looking for a man. She was waiting for the man.

A year went by, two, three, and a decade, and the heiress to millions was still a spinster, still waiting for the one man. It was believed she would stay a bachelor girl. She didn't sit with her hands folded, though.

Instead of throwing herself into the gay whirl of society, Rosamond worked for the poor and afflicted. In 1916 she went to Labrador, to the Grenfell Mission. She served as superintendent of St. Anthony's Orphanage. There she fondled sickly little babies of the North in her arms and raved many a child's life. Once she sent to Boston for a carriage for one baby that had become too heavy for her to carry in her arms. The carriage arrived the day Miss Bradley left the orphanage for Boston.

It was while in Labrador that Miss Bradley learned of the man who today became her husband. Rheault was an officer of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police, chasing criminals.

LETTERS LED TO LOVE.

There was some business correspondence between Rheault and Miss Bradley. The business letters were later replaced by letters of friendship. They did not meet at that time.

Miss Bradley finally returned to Boston to resume work among the sick and poor. They continued to write to each other. The war came. Rosamond went to Europe in 1916, as a Red Cross nurse.

She was again an angel of mercy. Rheault, too, had gone to war with Canadian troops.

With peace Rosamond returned to Boston. Rheault went back to Canada, but not to the Mounted Police force. He started life anew as a furniture salesman in Coburg and Quebec. The letters continued between them.

Last Autumn Rheault decided to come to Boston. Rosamond greeted him and introduced him to her exclusive friends. Neither Rosamond nor Rheault were disappointed. He proposed and was accepted. The engagement was announced in November.

When Rheault was visiting Rosamond his rough and ready ways gave some of Miss Bradley's friends a start. As one friend said:

"Captain Rheault was a wonderful man in his way. But he was most unconventional. He insisted on shaking hands with everybody he met, and in such a breezy way, too."

WAYS SHOCK MATRONS.

It seems the Captain breezed right over to some of the most haughty of Boston's matrons and wrung their hands in true backwoods style. He did not give them time to even elevate their lorgnettes. Some of the matrons, so friends say, did not approve of this manner of greeting. It was decidedly bourgeois.

Other society matrons were shocked when Captain Rheault commented on their wonderful clothes.

Rosamond herself took a certain delight in the spontaneous, breezy manner of her beau of the North woods. She was proud of him, and made no secret of the fact.

"Of all the men I have met through my varied experiences in many parts of the world, Charles Rheault is the only one I consider a man," she told an intimate friend.

MILL OWNERS' TO CONFER ON PAY DEMAND

Fall River, March 19.—Executive Committee of Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association met today, then notified the Textile Council that it would meet a Council committee at 2 o'clock next Friday afternoon to discuss the Council's demand for a fifteen per cent. wage raise.

The Council will act on that notification tomorrow night.

Meanwhile operatives affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America, an organization with which the manufacturers refuse to negotiate, hold a mass meeting tonight to take formal vote on a proposition to strike in order to enforce the recent U. T. W. A. demand for a wage raise of 29½ per cent.

INFORMAL VOTE TAKEN.

The U. T. W. A. operatives have already passed an informal vote in favor of a strike.

Thomas F. McMahon, international president of the U. T. W. A., who will be here for tonight's mass meeting, has said that, if a formal strike vote is passed the actual time for calling the strike is at his discretion. He said if a strike is called, more than 30,000 operatives will respond.

The local textile council, with which the manufacturers' association is willing to negotiate and which asks for only 15 per cent. raise, is composed of delegates from six unions, the Weavers, Carders, Slasher Tenders, Loom Fixers, Yarn Finishers and Mule Spinners. These are affiliated with the American Federation of Textile Operatives, known as the A. F. T. O.

The U. T. W. A., which demands 29½ per cent. raise, has four unions here, Doffers, Sweepers, Spinners and Third Hands. These unions have no central body corresponding to the Textile Council of the A. F. T. O. unions, but are subject to the general U. T. W. A. body.

President James Tansey of the Textile Council said the date selected for a conference was acceptable, but that the council would have to consider a suggestion of allowing outside citizens to attend.

DELOREY FREED AFTER 14 YEARS

Friday night, March 27, 1908, the girl told her mistress she was not going out. But she did. It was later said that about 7 o'clock that evening a man called on her, that she talked with him at the door of the Von Jagemann house, that the man left and later the girl went out.

NO WEAPON FOUND.

The next morning her body was found in Squire's Field, Arlington, on the edge of a gully. The ground was not torn up as though there had been a struggle. The girl's throat was slashed four times. The only other marks were bruises on the wrist. The clothing was not disarranged.

No weapon was found. While various suspicions were set up, the police were unable to connect any person with the case after months of investigation. The case became known as the Mullins murder mystery.

On April 2, 1909, a year and a week after the murder, James Mantir and Peter C. Delorey were arrested for the crime. The arrests resulted from a belated statement to the police by Mrs. Elizabeth Delorey of West Billerica, aunt of Peter.

The aunt said the two youths put in appearance at her home at 6:30 o'clock the morning after the murder and said they talked about the murder some time before the crime was known to the general public.

Delorey, according to the prosecution, made a confession to the Somerville police soon after the double arrest. The gist of the confession was that he and Mantir picked up Annie Mullins that evening, that they strolled to Squire's field and that the murder was committed by Mantir, Delorey was merely a terrified spectator.

At the trial Delorey repudiated the confession on the ground that it was frightened out of him by the police by statement that Mantir had already "come through" with a confession that put the murder knife in Delorey's hands.

Mantir also took the stand and denied any part in the murder. He asserted that he was at the Delorey farm in West Billerica the evening and night of the murder, but that Delorey was away from the farm through the day and that he did not see him that night.

POLICE "THIRD DEGREE."

Mantir testified to a police "third degree" in which he said the officers shouted at him and frightened him by shouting at him: "You did it; you did it."

The jury brought in adverse verdicts November 17, 1909, after being out three hours. Efforts to secure new trial were opposed by Former District Attorney John J. Higgins, who had prosecuted the cases. New trials were denied.

(The Boston American will publish exclusively tomorrow the first instalment of Peter Delorey's sensational story and his plans for his fight to release James Mantir.)

BOY'S BRANDING A MYSTERY

TWO "JACK THE PEEPERS"

The mystery is further deepened by two "Jack-the-Peepers" who stared through the open window of Mrs. Smith's bed chamber when she started to disrobe a while before the branding was done.

The Wilson girl, who acted as a nurse for the boy, left the Smith home Saturday noon, several hours before the mother discovered the brand when she started to bathe him.

She went to work for Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Doyle, of No. 129 Bowen Hill avenue. They have three youngsters. She was found today by a Boston American reporter at St. Mary's Parochial School, where she is in the seventh grade. Her story follows:

"I slept with William Friday night but I do not know anything that happened. He was on the right side of the bed. Some time during the night he woke me up by his crying.

BOY CRIES TERRIBLY.

"I felt so funny and there was a funny smell. It seemed so hard for me to wake up. When I did I found William standing up in bed crying terribly. I ran in and told his parents. They quieted him.

"Some time later he began crying again. I woke up and I thought I noticed that funny smell. I didn't hear anything and I didn't see anything. I was not touched. He awoke several times crying and kept me awake most all night."

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Smith detected anything out of the way when they went to the boy's room, which is on the first floor and easily accessible to intruders either by the windows or the two doors which are safeguarded only by ordinary keys and locks.

A Boston American reporter asked Mrs. Smith: "Do you or your husband know any one with the initials E. B.?"

She replied: "No, not that I can think of."

"Have you any idea what E. B. stands for?"

"It might mean East Boston."

"What makes you think they might mean East Boston?"

MOTHER AGITATED.

"Nothing special. I have no idea what those letters mean. East Boston was the only thing I could think of with the same initials."

Mrs. Smith, visibly agitated, remarked her unwillingness to discuss the case. She seems in fear of the two strangers who thrust their faces into her bedroom. She says that she does not know of any enemies of either her husband or herself whose hatred could be so malignant.

Careful examination by police physicians disclosed that the branding was not done by a hot iron as first thought. It was done by some virulent acid that ate into the child's soft skin.

The perfection of the lettering leads to the belief that the branding was done by some person expert in the handling of a brush and done with such care that an opiate must have been administered to the sleeping boy.

It is thought that when the effects of the drug wore away the pain caused him to awake screaming.

Mme. M——, aged forty-three, rue d'Amance, 2, Malzeville. Comes at the end of 1916 for violent pains in the head from which she has suffered all her life. After a few visits they vanish completely. Two months afterwards she realized that she was also cured of a prolapse of the uterus which she had not mentioned to me, and of which she was not thinking when she made her autosuggestion. (This result is due to the words: "in every respect" contained in the formula used morning and evening.)

Mme. D——, Choisy-le-Roi. Only one general suggestion from me in July, 1916, and autosuggestion on her part morning and evening. In October of the same year this lady tells me that she is cured of a prolapse of the uterus from which she had suffered for more than twenty years. Up to April, 1920, the cure is still holding good. (Same remark as in the preceding case.)

Mme. Jousselin, aged sixty, rue des Dominicains, 6. Comes on the 20th of July, 1917, for a violent pain in the right leg, accompanied by considerable swelling of the whole limb. She can only drag herself along with groans, but after the "seance," to her great astonishment, she can walk normally without feeling the least pain. When she comes back four days afterwards she has had no return of the pain and the swelling has subsided. This patient tells me that since she has attended the "seances" she has also been cured of white discharges and of enteritis from which she had long suffered. (Same remark as above.) In November the cure is still holding good.

Mlle. G. L——, aged fifteen, rue du Monter, 88. Has stammered from infancy. Comes on the 20th of July, 1917, and the stammering ceases instantly. A month after I saw her again and she had had no recurrence.

M. Ferry (Eugene), aged sixty, rue de la Cote, 56. For five years has suffered from rheumatic pains in the shoulders and in the left leg. Walks with difficulty leaning on a stick, and cannot lift the arms higher than the shoulders. Comes on the 17th of September, 1917. After the first "seance," the pains vanish completely and the patient cannot only take long strides but even run. Still more, he can whirl both arms like a windmill. In November the cure is still holding good.

Mme. Lacour, aged sixty-three, chemin des Sables. Pains in the face dating from more than twenty years back. All treatments have failed. An operation is advised, but the patient refuses to undergo it. She comes for the first time on July 25, 1916, and four days later the pain ceases. The cure has held good to this day.

$1,000 FOR EACH VISIT TO MODEL

Rich Boston Suitor, Held Innocent of Murder, Confesses He Paid Big Sums

New York, March 19.—The petting parties held when the millionaire, "Mr. Marshall of Boston," called on "My Dotty," as he fondly called Miss Dorothy King or Keenan, the murdered cloak model, cost the infatuated Bostonian an average of $1,000 per visit.

He called on her ten times in the last year and, in addition to considerable jewelry, he gave the beautiful girl a total of $10,000.

That gives an idea of the high cost of such butterfly acquaintance to the tired business man.

The figures as to the number of Marshall visits and the expenditure of Marshall cash are furnished by acting District Attorney Pecora, as told by Marshall himself.

MARSHALL INNOCENT.

Marshall of Boston, while the last person known to have been with the girl in her apartment late Wednesday, has proved himself "innocent of all knowledge of this crime," according to Mr. Pecora.

The Boston Marshall is sixty and married. But Mr. Pecora refused to disclose his exact identity or baptisms.

The police asserted today that, with the identity established of a man whom Dorothy held in shuddering fear, they are at the point of solving the mystery.

Arrest of the slayer is expected today. The detectives on the case are weaving their web of evidence around him. The suspect was being kept under surveillance until the opportune moment for his arrest.

It was from this man, who had often threatened to kill her, that the "Broadway butterfly" fled from her apartment at 2 o'clock Thursday morning to seek refuge in a hotel.

His motive for the murder, the police say, was purely revenge. The ransacking of the apartment of its jewels and costly apparel was incidental.

FLED TO GUIMARES.

That Dorothy instead of being, as supposed, in her apartment at 2:30 Thursday morning, was in fact in the Hotel Embassy suite of Albert E. Guimares, was made in an affidavit sworn to by a girl chum of the slain girl for the American.

The new revelations made by this chum, whose identity is withheld, tends to destroy the time schedule built up by police officials.

TELLEGEN HAD 2 LOVES AND THEN 'GERRY'

New York, March 19.—Lorna Ambler, an Australian actress, today was named for the first time as the co-respondent in the divorce suit of Geraldine Farrar against Lou Tellegen.

Miss Ambler's name was brought in by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the diva, in examination of witnesses before Referee Thomas Mahoney. Miss Ambler was described as twenty-five years old, strikingly beautiful, with a decidedly English accent.

W. F. Beers testified that in June, 1921, he rented a bungalow to Tellegen's secretary and Tellegen arrived with a woman of striking appearance, whom Beers identified by a photograph of Miss Ambler. He described how the couple had bathed, fished and ridden together for a month.

Louis Meithaner, a lawyer associated with Miss Farrar's counsel, described excursions he said Tellegen and Miss Ambler had taken in his rowboat.

Norman Fitzsimmons, a private detective, testified that in August Miss Ambler went to live in a studio apartment in this city, where the next month Tellegen opened an engagement.

Fitzsimmons declared Tellegen was friendly with another woman mentioned only as "L," taking her to her home on Riverside Drive each night and kissing her good night. After that, Fitzsimmons continued, Tellegen frequently would return to the rooming house on West 37th street, where Miss Ambler then was living, meeting the actress in the vestibule and embracing her.

Then they would go for a walk, the witness stated, frequently walking far downtown into the crowded East Side.

SLEUTH FREED IN CULBERSON LOVE TANGLE

Newark, N. J. March 19.—John F. Ellis, former private detective, who was accused of kidnaping Alex. E. Robertson, a former gunner in the British Royal Artillery, and suitor for the hand of Miss Mary Culberson, daughter of former United States Senator Culberson of Texas, was freed today by Judge Stickel.

The kidnaping indictment was dismissed when the court was told that Robertson had refused to testify against Ellis, declaring he wished to avoid the publicity which would attend a trial.

Robertson charged Ellis had forced him to leave his home in Bloomfield on the pretext that he was wanted in New York on a charge of stealing property of the British War Veterans' Association.

Instead of taking him to New York, however, Robertson charged, Ellis took him to Boston and tried to place him on a steamer bound for Buenos Aires.

Mrs. Mary A. Andrews, an aunt with whom Robertson had lived, obtained his release, after complaining to the British Embassy at Washington.

TODAY'S NEWS IN EUROPE

GERMANY

Essen—Three Germans were arrested today by the French and held as hostages after a French sentry had been slain. Another German who tried to escape was killed.

GREAT BRITAIN

London—It was reported today that Lord Curzon, Foreign Secretary, expects Germany to make a move within a few days for settling the Ruhr problem.

RUSSIA

Moscow — Slight improvement was reported today in the condition of Nicolai Lenine. An official bulletin was issued noting the patient's progress.

ITALY

Rome—Active steps toward intervention in the Ruhr were taken by the Vatican today. Monsignor Testa was sent to the Ruhr on a special mission of investigation by Pope Pius XI.

FRENCH SEIZE 8 GERMANS AS HOSTAGES

Dortmund (By International News Service)—Large forces of French reinforcements entered Dortmund today. German officials claimed French soldiers were guilty of plundering in some instances.

Essen, March 19 (By International News Service)—A virtual reign of terror broke out here today following the shooting of a French sentinel.

Dr. Vollner, a member of the Reichstag, and seven others were seized by the French as hostages and rushed to Warden penitentiary.

Mystery surrounded the shooting. Soldiers ran through the street after the attack, looking for civilians. A cook at the Handelshof Hotel was arrested after being wounded.

Five German chauffeurs took refuge in a little lunch wagon. One who was to drive the International News Service correspondent to Dortmund was a member of this party.

They declare the French, led by an officer, beat them unmercifully. The chauffeurs said their sole offence was "drinking coffee."

Invaders Suppress 455 German Newspapers

Coblenz, March 19 (By the Associated Press.)—Of the 1,450 newspapers in the Rhineland and the Ruhr, 455 have been suppressed by the occupation authorities for periods varying from three days to several months, according to semi-official German figures.

Suspensions in the Rhineland total 298. Forty-three of the journals have more than once been forbidden to publish, while sixty-three newspapers printed outside of these areas have been denied the right to circulate in occupied territory.

Prison sentences running as high as eighteen months and fines of as much as 1,000,000 marks have been imposed on eighty-two editors and thirty-one publishers. Eighteen editors and nine publishers have been deported with their families.

Cold Wave With Heavy Frost Due Here Tonight

The weather will be fair tonight and Tuesday. The winds will diminish tomorrow night.

RUSSIA TO TAX FOREIGNERS

Moscow, March 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The government has decreed that all foreigners in Russia, except diplomats, consular officers and persons who have connections with a concession, are subject to the same taxes that are levied on Russians. The present income tax takes 80 per cent. of all salaries of more than $100 monthly.

For strengthening the State monopoly in foreign trade, the Council of Labor and Defence has approved a decree that limits to certain cooperative organizations and to fourteen government trusts or departments the right to buy and sell abroad. Even those favored organizations must work in conjunction with the Commissar of Foreign Trade. The measure further provides that any foreign concern already operating in Russia must obtain permission to do business from the Concessions Committee and the Foreign Trade Department within one month or be liquidated.

HARDING PARTY HEADS NORTH

Palm Beach, Fla., March 19.—President and Mrs. Harding and their vacation party today began a northward cruise that will end Thursday or Friday at St. Augustine.

After a Sunday in Palm Beach, the members of the party boarded the houseboat Pioneer which had come up from Miami. Fishing tackle and bait were aboard the Pioneer when she left here today, and it was thought probable the monotony of chugging up the Indian and Halifax rivers might be varied by fishing.

SOCIETY GIRLS FLEE FLOOD IN BROOKLINE

There was a dull thud when the main burst. Two newsboys, Charles McKendry of No. 256 Washington street, Brookline, and George Hickey of No. 75 Monastery road, Brighton, were attracted by the noise. They notified the police.

Thousands of gallons of water shot up. It rained with torrential speed down the slope toward Coolidge Corner and flowed over the curbs into the houses.

Miss Anna Shepherd, a cook employed by the Halls, was at work in the kitchen when the water poured in windows and under the doors.

At the same time the water enveloped the steam heater and put out the fire. Clouds of steam belched upward through the house.

Miss Hall, who was on the fifth floor, thought fire had broken out. She went to the basement and there found her way out cut off. She found her dog, opened a window and jumped to the yard, which was above the flood. Two firemen waded to the cellar, where they found two kittens perched on trunks that were floating.

The water flooded the cellar of Miss Mary Stumpf, No. 1493 Beacon street, the vacant house at No. 1491, the Beacon apartments at Nos. 1487 and 1485 and Mrs. Mary L. Wilson, No. 1483. In each instance the tops of the heaters were submerged temporarily.

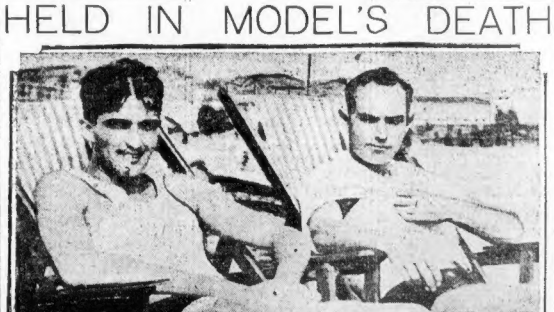
The flood passed through all the houses and came out the rear doors onto Griggs road. It worked into the home of Dr. Gilbert Horrax, at No. 69 and the Phillips house at No. 67. Griggs road playground, 200 feet from the break, was under water.

The bridle path was washed away between Summit avenue and Fairbanks street and it is feared the pavement might be undermined part of the way.

The water department had twenty-five men damming the flood, and the Boston Elevated had fifteen more workers protecting the tracks from being washed out.

Neither police nor water department officials could estimate the damage this afternoon. It was said by both that, in all probability, the loss would reach upwards of $20,000, if not much more than this. Thus far it has been impossible to obtain any idea as to the damage to the main and the roadway.

HELD IN MODEL'S DEATH



These two men, Albert E. Guimares (with the cigarette) and "Billy" McLaughlin, were close friends of Dorothy King. Guimares is now out on $10,00 bail in New York on a charge of owning a revolver and on $2,500 awaiting decision on proceedings to send him to Boston to face a stock deal indictment. This picture was taken on the beach at Atlantic City.

TWO WOMEN SLAYERS TAKEN TO PRISON

New York, March 19.—Mrs. Lillian Raizen and Mrs. M. Paulette Saludes, slayers of men they declared had betrayed them, were taken to Auburn Prison today to begin sentences of from twenty years to life imprisonment. Mrs. Raizen, who was sentenced for shooting of Dr. Gleckstein, appeared calm and wholly recovered from the nervousness of her trial.

Mrs. Saludes, convicted of the murder of Oscar Marseillere, was depressed and had to be helped into an automobile.

FASCISTI INVADES BOSTON

Mussolini Launches Campaign to Organize Italians in the United States

(Copyright, 1923, by International News Service.)

New York, March 19.—Under the personal supervision of Benito Mussolini, Premier of Italy, who captured the Italian government by his organization of Fascisti, or "Black Shirts," fascios are being organized in the United States by agents from Italy.

This effort is part of a world-wide movement extending into all countries.

Branches already have been organized by Mussolini's agents in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Bridgeport and Waterbury.

The following cable was sent to Mussolini by Giannetto Bottero, secretary of the Boston Fascio, with headquarters at No. 281 Hanover street:

"The first Italian Fascisti of Boston, strongly united by the ancient and new faith of home in the intangibility of the Fatherland, swear their unlimited and unconditional obedience to the leaders of the new Italy."

Copies of this cable were spread broadcast along the Boston Italians.

All American branches have been ordered by Mussolini to obey the New York branch, the headquarters, which, in turn, receives its orders from Mussolini direct.

Boston Branch Has Membership of 200

The Boston branch of the Fascisti has been organized more than two months and has upward of 200 members. It has an official weekly organ known as "Giovinozza," meaning "Youth." Meetings are held on Prince street, and headquarters is at Room 8, No. 281 Hanover street, North End.

The officers of the Boston branch are: Dr. Giannetto Bottero, political secretary; Professor Orlando Della Porta, treasurer; Gaetano Magnudda, secretary, and directors Giovanni Sinni, Dr. Francesco Maculuso, Joseph Langone, Ettore Benvenuti, Giovanni Bolardi, Marie Conti, Francesco Ciambelli, Mrs. Italia Bruni, Mrs. Margherita Galbe, Mrs. Maria Leonardi and Captain Fernando Pottinella. Dr. Macaluso is editor of the official organ of the local branch.

According to Dr. Macaluso there are branches of the organization in Lawrence and Franklin, Mass., Waterbury, Ct., Syracuse, N. Y., Endicott, N. Y., Schenectady, N. Y., Kenosha, Wis., Newark, N. J., Pueblo, Col., San Antonio, Tex., Chicago and Detroit. The principal branch is in New York City.

Dr. Macaluso says the program of the Fascisti in America "is to make available among the Italians in America the value of the magnificent effort of rebirth which the Fascisti of Italy are making for the whole people of Italy with unshakable determination.

"To create a state of mind which shall be vigorous, conforming to the renewed Italian strength and disposed to accomplish the duties which this fatherland of ours imposes on us and to defend all the rights which the same fatherland with its laws gives to us."

SENATORS ABANDON TOUR OF RUSSIA

Washington, March 19.—The tour of Russia this Summer by a party of senators and representatives as guests of the Soviet government has been abandoned, Senator Ladd, Republican, North Dakota, announced today. Failure to receive an official invitation from the soviets and inability to get together a congressional party were the reasons given. Senator Ladd, however, may make the trip alone later.

she never heard of me!"

"Why didn't you tell Mr. Ruth personally that you were in trouble. Instead of writing to him?" Miss Dixon was asked.

"Because I hadn't seen him in weeks. The team had been away and he had just come back for the World's Series. I tried to telephone him, but I couldn't get him on the wire. Then I sent word to him through a friend of his. I didn't get any answer. I just had to get word to him so I wrote the letter.

STILL "ANOTHER GIRL."

"Weren't you afraid the letter would fall into Mrs. Ruth's hands?"

Miss Dixon wrung her handkerchief between her fingers nervously.

"I took it over myself to the Ansonia Hotel and gave it to the clerk and asked him to deliver it to Mr. Ruth personally. I had tried every other way and I just had to let him know. I was sure if I got word to him—direct from me to him, everything would be all right. He had always seemed to care for me so much.

"But, of course now I realize that he doesn't care for me any more. Perhaps he has gone back to that other girl he used to tell me about some times. But oh, I know he did care for me last Summer. I've told you all about it—how I came to meet him—and grew to love him—and all."

Miss Dixon's own story follows:

By DOLORES DIXON

One day last July while I was on my vacation I was walking through 41st street, and I saw a Harding blue Packard car standing at the curb. In the car were some friends of mine and they called me over. I remember I had on a periwinkle blue dress and a black mallne hat and my best black pumps, and I was glad I was dressed up, because it was such a fine looking car, and my friends introduced me to the other people in it—Mr. and Mrs. Ruth.

THRILLED AT MEETING.

That was the first time I had ever seen Babe Ruth close up like that—although of course I knew who he was—and I was thrilled to death to meet him. He seemed glad to meet me, too, although I thought that was just his kind manner.

I was even more thrilled when the Ruths got up a party for that same evening to go to Palisade Park, and invited me along. There were seven in the party and we had a wonderful time. Mrs. Ruth was along, and she stayed close to Mr. Ruth. But I'll be managed to be very nice to me.

"AS "NEXT DAY."

Of course, I didn't think he was really interested in little me. I just couldn't believe it. I thought he was awfully nice—very nice, as a matter of fact. Mr. Ruth was as "Babe" Ruth, the great ball player. He was so jolly and not a bit offish.

I didn't think I'd ever see him again, but I could hardly sleep all night just because I had met him and he had seemed to like me. And I couldn't stop thinking how big he was and how strong, and how every body in the country knew who he was and was crazy about him.

And I thought when I went back to Erie, now I would be able to tell all the girls I had met "Babe" Ruth and had been at a party with him and what we had looked like—and what he had said.

So imagine my surprise when I opened the door the next day and "Babe" Ruth himself was standing there.

Bright Spots in Shadowland

WHAT in many respects is expected to be the most thrilling motion picture ever woven around life in the North woods is that which the Cosmopolitan Corporation will make from the Arthur Stringer story, "Snowblind," work on which was started when a specially selected company left for Banff, where the action located his pulsating romance of outdoor life. Three-quarters of the film will be made in the open and the company will be on location around Banff and Lake Louise for at least six weeks. Scenes will also be "shot" in and near Quebec and Montreal in picturizing the story the Cosmopolitan Corporation has assembled a brilliant cast of players. Lionel Barrymore, who recently completed work on "Enemies of Women," Cosmopolitan's picturization of a Vicente Blasco Ibanez story, and Seena Owen, who appeared with Barrymore in "The Face in the Fog," are the featured players.

AL CHRISTIE is raising for himself the title of Flying Dutchman of the comedy business, for he has been doing some traveling again. Some weks ago Christie started the film world by taking a company of sixteen people to Honolulu and return—a little jaunt of 4,000 miles—just to secure the proper atmosphere and backgrounds for "A Hula Honeymoon." This time he has taken flight to the sunny clime of Southern California for the snowy beauties of Truckee, where he has been making the snow scenes for a new comedy, "Winter Has Come," which features Dorothy Devore.

"GERMANY has never seen a film by either Douglas Fairbanks or Mary Pickford," said Al Kaufman, who has just returned from Europe. "They never saw a Cecil B. DeMille or Charlie Chaplin production until late in this past year. The reason is a strict contingent law calculated to protect German films. According to this, only 20 per cent, as much film may be imported as Germany exports."

Studio Notes

Bebe Daniels has recovered so rapidly from her recent operation for appendicitis that she has been given the role originally assigned to her in "The Exciters." Agnes Ayres came from the West Coast to play this role, but instead she has been given a role in "The Love Chase."

LYNN DOCTORS TO PROBE BOY'S CASE

A baby boy, Armonas Pawanlas, whose parents live at No. 13 Myrtle street, Lynn, was rushed to Lynn Hospital in the police ambulance, after a doctor said he had pneumonia.

Police carried him into the hospital, where doctors discovered he was strangling from diphtheria. The boy was removed to the isolation hospital where he lies seriously ill.

The medical fraternity of Lynn will, it is said, investigate the case, because several health rules were violated in the handling of contagious case without special precautions.

U.S. REFUSES TO CUT RHINE BILL TO ALLIES

Paris, March 19.—(By the Associated Press)—A refusal by the United States to accept reduction of its bill for the expenses of the American army of occupation by the value of the German ships seized in American ports was presented today to the allied representatives in conference here on the reimbursement question by Eliot Wadsworth, assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Reimbursement of the $255,000,000 expense in twelve annual instalments out of possible German reparation payments, which the allies proposed is accepted in principle, it was stated, but Mr. Wadsworth made it plain the American view was that the bill should be paid and that it was not the concern of the United States whether it was met out of German payments or otherwise.

"BABE" RUTH, WIFE AND CHILD

The famous ball player's wife denounces the girl who is suing him for $50,000, alleging that "Babe" is the father of an expected child, as a blackmailer, and denies any knowledge of her. Dolores Dixon, the girl, in her story of the alleged love affair with "Babe," says that Mrs. Ruth was with the party at which she says she became infatuated with Ruth, and he with her.

SEEK RADIO 'DEAD SPOT' CAUSES

Washington, March 19.—Government scientists are trying to determine the cause of "dead spots" between a number of cities in the United States, which form an almost impenetrable barrier to the direct exchange of radio messages.

The most pronounced of these appears to be between Washington and Baltimore. To get a message to this point, less than forty miles distant, Washington senders are using Chicago and other comparatively remote cities as a relay point. The pleasures of radio concert are almost completely lost between the two cities.

Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio division of the Bureau of Standards, reports that a similar difficulty exists between Pittsburgh and Cleveland, Hartford and Boston and Providence and Boston.

LENINE BOOKS IN FOSTER TRIAL

St. Joseph, Mich., March 19.—Identification of the hundreds of documents seized when Department of Justice agents and a sheriff's posse raided the Communist convention here last August, continued today at the opening of the second week of the trial of William Z. Foster.

Maurice Wolff, government agent, told of the finding of each of the books and papers.

Among these were copies of "The Defence of Terrorism," by Leon Trotzky; "Left Wing Communism and Infantile Disorder," and "Imperialism, the Final State of Capitalism," both by Nicolai Lenine; "The Russian Revolution," and "The Great Steel Strike and Its Lessons," by Foster, and "The Report of the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale," by Zinoviev.

U.S. SAYS NO TO BRITISH DEBT PLAN

Washington, March 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Secretary Mellon's refusal to accept the British proposal for settlement of the British debt to the United States, on the basis of the payment of the principal in 62 annual instalments, with interest at 3 per cent., was made known today.

The British proposal, presented last week and afterwards submitted to Washington, called a separate meeting for tomorrow, at which they will try to evolve another proposition which will be given Mr. Wadsworth at a full meeting of the conference Thursday.

ANOTHER SHOE MAN MISSING IN BROCKTON

The disappearance of Upjohn recalls the unsolved mystery of Thomas Schofield, treasurer of the Stacey Adams Shoe Company of this city, who dropped from sight January 2.

Upjohn started for North Adams to visit a shoe factory there on March 12. Nothing has been heard of him since. His wife professes to know nothing of his whereabouts nor can she give any reason for his disappearence.

Persons acquainted with him can offer no explanation. Some think he may be an asphasia victim. Others fear he may have met with an accident or perhaps may be the victime of foul play.

Upjohn has been identified with the shoe industry for years. He was a partner in the Franklin Last Company. This concern has dissolved its business. The books are now being audiated.

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the neck and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

QUICK RELIEF FROM COSTIVENESS

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, youthful vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—dull, tired feeling—sick headache—biliousness—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant relief from one or two Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands of them now used just to keep right. 10c and 30c.

Superfluous Hair Now Removed, Roots and All!

The Philaclino Home Method

A boon to women troubled with superfluous hair is the new Philaclino process. It is totally unlike the depilatory, electrical and other methods for the removal of hairy growths. It is the one thing that enables one to remove the hair completely—roots and all—in one's own home, without the assistance of an expert. The result cannot be doubted, for the user sees the hair-roots with her own eyes. A stick of Philaclino, with easy directions, can be had at any drug store. It is entirely harmless (a child could safely eat it), odorless and non-irritating. It is an instantaneous method, and so thorough the skin is left perfectly smooth, hairless, bearing not the least evidence of its former disfigurement.

PHELACTINE

WILLIAMS OUT AFTER SCALP OF GOODWIN

A bitter, personal, undercover battle that has been going on for months between two prominent State officials flared forth into the open today when William F. Williams, the State commissioner of public works, began a campaign to strip from Frank A. Goodwin, State registrar of motor vehicles, the power to appoint and remove all the State inspectors whose job is to bring speedy justice to the reckless motorists who endanger life and property on the public highways.

NAMED BY COLE.

Goodwin was appointed to his present office by the late John N. Cole, who was State Commissioner of Public Works. The two began a campaign against reckless auto drivers that resulted in stripping away the auto licenses from thousands of them and the building up of a Black List of at least 1,000 other autoists whose offences have been so grave that they will never again be allowed to operate a car in this State.

Upon Cole's death, Mr. Williams for twenty years a chief engineer in his department, was appointed State commissioner—head of a board which controls Goodwin's activities besides spending $9,000,000 a year on road work and having charge of all the rivers and harbors in the State.

Goodwin accompanied his girl clerks to the State House and, at a public hearing, agreed that conditions at the Auto Registry were disgraceful. He said the pier ought to be abandoned and that the Auto Registry ought to be set up some place near the heart of the city, where it would be more convenient to autoists.

OPENED A FIGHT.

The difference of opinion on public policy started the scrap between them.

Williams, possibly in a spirit of retaliation, has filed with the Legislature a bill to take away from Goodwin and to vest in himself the immediate authority over the auto inspectors, who are scattered over the State.

VICE-RAIDING COP IS SUSPENDED

Frechim Goldberg, special officer at the Roxbury Crossing station, and one of the most active liquor officers in the city, today was suspended, as the result of charges that he received a gallon of whiskey from a woman and failed to file a complaint.

The charge came as a surprise, because of Goldberg's activity in running down illicit liquor sellers. He has served on the vice squad from headquarters and on the liquor squads of two stations.

It is alleged that Goldberg arranged by telephone with a Dorchester woman for the delivery of a gallon of whiskey at Columbus ave and Roxbury street. When she arrived, Goldberg is alleged to have taken the whiskey himself.

URGES REJECTION OF MAYOR'S STREET PLAN

Judge Michael H. Sullivan, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, today urged the defeat of Mayor Curley's $18,000,000 street-widening project, at a hearing before the Committee on Municipal Finance. Unlike the Boston Real Estate Exchange, which had opposed all but the Cambridge and Court streets widening, Judge Sullivan said he felt the entire project ought to be dismissed for the present.

ENDS LIFE AFTER CAR HITS PASSENGER

Washington, March 19.—Hal A. Maine, 24 years old, a bond salesman, died from a self-inflicted bullet wound a few hours after an automobile bearing a license number which police said was that of his car had swept by a street car stop in violation of traffic laws and seriously injured an alighting passenger. He left this note to his wife and mother: "I am a rotter. I apologize."

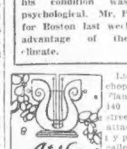
First A. E. F. Liar Has Told a Real Whopper! Where's the Next?

By LIGHTNIN' BILL JONES

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 19 (By Phoney Radio).—James J. Phelan, Massachusetts' State Fuel Administrator, was confined to his hotel here last week with a severe case of frost-bite. A physician in attendance on Mr. Phelan said his condition was merely psychological. Mr. Phelan left for Boston last week to take advantage of the milder climate.



Lighting his cheroot, Walter B. Flannery of No. 149 Federal street, Boston attacked his typewriter, called on his girl and told her to prepare to see a good show with him in a few days, and wrote the following:

"In the old days when I was prospecting in San Antone, a bunch of Indians chased me into a blind gorge to which there was an only entrance but no exit. There must have been thirty of the Injuns. I emptied my trusty rifle and six four, but there were twenty-six left. I was out of ammunition.

HOOKED EDITOR.

Mr. Flannery stopped there. The Liars' Contest Editor was intrigued with the situation. He telephoned Flannery.

"What happened to you after your ammunition ran out?" he asked Flannery.

"The Indians killed me," said Flannery.

Two tickets for the late Mr. Flannery, who is not the dead one he cracks up to be, to "Lightnin'" at the Hollis Street Theatre, where he may pick up a few pointers on the gentle art of lying.

If Mr. William F. Kenney, of No. 8 Vinton street, South Boston, calls at the office of the Liars' Contest Editor, he will get a pair of ducats to "Lightnin'" for this one:

BEAT THIS, DOUGHBOYS!

"There were fifty of us soldiers marching along a road, somewhere in France. We came into contact with a group of about a dozen Heinies. We fled without firing a shot."

Another winner:

"I was out motoring with my family. We were fifty miles from nowhere when the engine of my flivver broke down. I took out my watch, ripped the case off, put the works into the hood after taking out the engine, connected it up, and we resumed our tour. To this day I carry the defunct movement in my watch, and it keeps excellent time."

38,000,000 LIARS FOUND.

By the way, don't forget that at the end of this contest the editor will select what are in his opinion the three best lies submitted, and will give a ten dollar gold piece to each of the three winners. In the meantime, every lie printed gets a pair of tickets to "Lightnin'" for the contributor who sends it in.

And by the way again, the other day we printed an alleged income tax blank which purported to have come from John D. Rockefeller, and we offered a pair of tickets to the person who forgot to sign his name and address to this contribution. Up to date, 58,543,560 people have written in saying they sent this one.

We cannot tell a lie. We sent it ourself.

Address all your lies to the Liars' Contest Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

This Mother Knows Value of Father John's Medicine

"Just as soon as any of my family get a cold, I always give them Father John's Medicine. One of my babies as well as my husband had pneumonia two years ago, and I believe that Father John's Medicine helped them to regain their health. I always use Father John's Medicine just as soon as any of us get cold."—[Signed] Mrs. John E. Nicholes, 2936 Hazel st., Erie, Pa.

For building up strength to resist colds and coughs as well as to get rid of them, Father John's Medicine has proved its value by more than 67 years of success. It is the standard family medicine in thousands of homes all over the country. Guaranteed free from alcohol and dangerous drugs in any form.

ROCCO BEAT RUM GAME BY $140

Introducing Rocco Gentile of No. 81 West street, Newton—the man who beat the cops in a liquor game.

Six men gathered at Rocco's house. They were thirsty. Rocco gave them wine. They were speculative. Rocco gave them cards.

The loser in each game paid Rocco for the privilege of gaming an amount commensurate with the booze value of "Dago Red."

The cops came. They arrested Rocco and his friends. Rocco paid $10 in Newton Court for maintaining a gaming house. Four paid fines of $5 for gaming on the Lord's Day. Two paid $5 each for being present.

Rocco paid and laughed. He laughed because last June he paid $150 for selling liquor.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $5. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made syrup. Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so promptly and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "8½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HOLD YOUTH FOR GIVING DRINKS AT DANCE HALL

The Federal prohibition agents are going after the dance hall gentry who bring liquor with their dancing boys.

This statement was made today by United States Commissioner Hayes, when he removed eighteen-year-old Victor Kendall, of Lowell.

At the conclusion of his lecture Mr. Hayes held Kendall for the grand jury.

Kendall was passing a flask around in the smoking room of the dance hall, when Inspector Moore of the Lowell police and Federal Agent Walter H. Sullivan asked him if he couldn't sell them a drink.

"Can't sell you any," Kendall said. "The squarehead liquor squad is nosing around. But I'll give you a drink."

He was placed under arrest on a charge of having liquor in his possession.

"It's high time you young dancehands were given to understand that a dance hall is the last place on earth where liquor should be handed about," Commissioner Hayes said. "Many young girls go to these dance places for harmless and innocent amusement, and it's liquor that transforms dancing from a decent form of entertainment to a vice.

"I'm going to hold you for the grand jury, and I'm going to hold any others like you for the Grand Jury who are brought before me. This has got to stop."

SEIZE DIVORCEE IN GAMING HOUSE RAID

Everything was green in honor of St. Patrick—even the tickets, that were sold in advance.

Green-tinted festoons hung about the walls. Green shades reflected a soft green glow. Green covers topped the tables. Green bills were all around.

A good time was being had by all specially Miss Edith Lambert, hostess, and then——

Twenty men fled a big craps game. Green bills were left behind on the green-topped table lighted by the green-shaded lights.

Twenty-one others, who paused to gather up bills from another table, and Miss Lambert were arrested. They will appear in Saugus Court Saturday on a charge of gambling on the Lord's Day.

All of which is why Lynn and Saugus police started today to delve into the past of the mysterious Miss Lambert, who worked at the River plant of the General Electric Works and who sold admission tickets to a St. Patrick's Day dicing contest.

Miss Lambert declines to speak about herself or her activities further than to say she came from New Hampshire and is a divorcee.

Will show you how folks get those whiter, cleaner teeth

Go ask for a test of this new way of teeth cleaning. It means too much to miss.

Film makes teeth dingy

That viscous film you feel on teeth is their chief enemy. It clouds them. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Film absorbs stains, then forms a dingy coat. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why few escaped tooth troubles.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

Now they curdle film

Old brushing methods did not effectively combat film. As a result, nearly all people suffered from it.

Now dental science knows two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. To millions of homes it has brought a new den-

Corrects old mistakes

Research also proved that old methods brought undesired effects. They decreased the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

They reduced the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Pepsodent brings just opposite effects. It multiplies that alkalinity, multiplies that starch digestant. Thus it gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

This test will show

The results of this test will amaze and delight you. Make it—watch the changes that occur.

Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Compare the results with old methods—by what you clearly see and feel. You will gain a new conception of clean teeth.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Careful people the world over now use Pepsodent, largely by dental advice. It has supplanted in millions of homes the methods of the past.

SIKI AND O'DOWD ARE PUT IN THE PUGILISTIC JUNK PILE

SENEGALESE LACKED FORM AS FIGHTER

By JACK CONWAY.

Readers of this column were prepared for both of these happenings. We have pointed out on numerous occasions that Johnny Wilson crushed the last spark of fighting ability in O'Dowd when he battered the St. Paul man into submission in their fifteen-round tussle in New York two years ago. O'Dowd received an unmerciful beating around the body in that engagement and was taken to the hospital after the contest.

We advised O'Dowd to quit boxing after that encounter. Mike, one of the most courageous men that ever entered a ring, still thought he could fight. Malone proved that the latter requires more than gameness to keep step with competition.

McTigue figured to win over Siki. The Senegalese was never a great fighter. Jeff Smith once knocked him out in a round. Some very mediocre performers have defeated him.

Georges Carpentier took Siki so lightly that he refused to train for their encounter. The Frenchman cannot afford to take such risks now that he is on the decline as a boxer. Siki won more as a result of Carpentier's poor condition than on account of any merit of his own.

Siki, jungle man, acted like a drunken fool after his victory over Carpentier. He made himself a common nuisance in France, where he got into numerous brawls in cafes. He was obnoxious when he paraded along the boulevards. His head became inflated ten times its normal size, he tried to use language with which he was not familiar, he dressed like a circus freak, while he kept intruding where he was not wanted. A nookey cage would have been useful in checking his ill-advised actions.

Siki couldn't fight. Everybody in the boxing game knew that. But he was champion as a result of his win over Carpentier.

The French Boxing Federation made a foolish attempt to strip Siki of his title. Apparently this learned body does not know that the only way a boxer can lose a championship is in the ring.

Tex Rickard was anxious to bring Siki to America. He signed the negro to a contract. Then the Senegalese balked and refused to come to this country. Another one of his insane moves.

Siki could have got $100,000 for a single bout in this country, but of course he would have been defeated. But as he lacks ability his manager should have been wise enough to have him go where he would get the most money.

We do not know how much Siki was paid for his bout with McTigue, but we doubt very much if he received a penny more than $10,000. The chances are he did not get that much.

* * *

When a dub fighter gets a lucky break and wins a championship, he should accept the highest bid for his services. He should realize that he will probably be beaten in the first good man he meets. And he is a sap if he fails to get plenty of government bonds as affectable shelling of defeat.

The public cheers for the contenders. It also pays tribute to the new champion.

Once a man reaches the top the gang tries to pull him down.

That is probably why so many of our professional athletes, especially the boxers, become cynical.

The boxer who has a neat bank account doesn't have to worry so much about what the mob says about him when he is through. He can get plenty of nourishment from the dividends of good investments.

Siki, jungle fighter, did not have brains enough to make the most of his big opportunity. He must, therefore, still look to the cafes. When his money is spent and he is unable to stake any more fighting, he can hang around the bars and tell curious tourists who will buy him booze of the time he knocked out Carpentier.

Yet there are men with millions who have never done anything as noble as Siki. Knocking out often means wholesale thieving, casts a look of disgust at a poor, ignorant creature like Siki.

That's natural.

The Senegalese is obliged to take punishment to get money enough to buy champagne. High finance deals out punishment and in so doing accumulates millions.

HARRY GREB'S WIFE DIES OF WHITE PLAGUE

Pittsburgh, March 19—Mrs. Harry Greb, wife of the former American light-heavyweight champion, is dead at her home here.

Mrs. Greb has been ill for a long time with tuberculosis and her death has been expected for several weeks. The couple have one child, a little girl of three years.

When Mrs. Greb first fell ill the pugilist husband sent her to Saranac Lake, N. Y. For a time she seemed to improve and gained in weight until she scaled 120 pounds. Then she began to fail and physicians urged her removal to the warm dry air of Arizona.

On the way West Mrs. Greb fell so ill a few months ago that when she reached Pittsburgh it was decided to have her go to her home. She speedily grew so weak that it was impossible to move her.

This is the most crushing blow Greb has ever received. It has broken his heart and it is believed that the great fighter will appear in the ring for a long time.

Greb was recently robbed of his title in a bout with Gene Tunney in New York. The clique that robbed Greb stooped so low as to send threatening letters to his wife, who, at the time, was dying.

"I don't care what this gang does to me personally," Greb pleaded before the New York Boxing Commission, but I do ask you to do something to save my wife from their unscrupulous tactics."

Greb had been blacklisted by the New York "ring" as a result of his breaking with George Engle, his former manager.

Naturally Tunney was handed the decision even though Greb won. When Mrs. Greb was informed of the injustice that had been done her husband it greatly affected her condition.

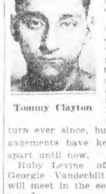
JIMMY COX IN BOUT AT LYNN

Jimmy Cox of Athlone, Ireland and Frankie Quill of Brockton are to meet tonight in the feature bout at the Casino A. C., Lynn. The patrons of the Lynn club expect one of the greatest scraps of the season.



Tommy Clayton

The same pair locked horns at the casino three weeks ago and put on ten rounds of the hottest sessions ever seen in the Casino ring. Jack Murphy has been after a return ever since, but previous engagements have kept the boxers apart until now.

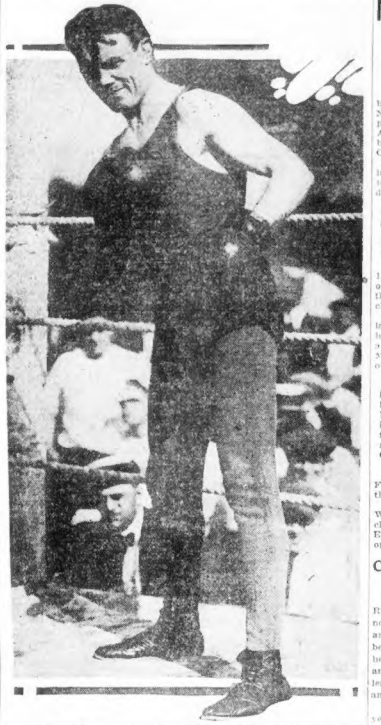
Ruby Levine of Lewiston and Georgie Vanderbilt of Fall River will meet in the semi-final of eight rounds.

Young McGauslin of Brockton and Tommy Clayton are paired in one of the six-rounders, and Pat Kelly of South Boston and Kid Lubin of New York are to mix it for the same distance.

Martin to Box Edwards

New York, March 19.—Pepper Martin, Brooklyn's hard-punching featherweight, and Frankie Edwards, the fighter who cared at the Broadway Athletic Club Thursday night, will meet in the main bout at the Queensboro A. C. on March 31, it was announced today.

Mike McTigue Now Playing 'The Wearing of the Green'



Mike McTigue, the pride of County Clare, Ireland, is still enjoying his St. Patrick's Day celebration. A few months ago Mike, his wife and two children journeyed to Ireland to visit the parents of the new world's light-heavyweight champion. It was to be merely a joy ride. The kids needed some new shoes, or something, for Mike decided to do a little fighting while overseas. He knocked out Johnny Basham in three rounds and later kayoed Harry Knight and Harry Reeves each in four sessions. When Joe Beckett and Georges Carpentier refused to met Mike, the latter decided to return to New York. Promoter Jim Harris of Dublin then whispered that he would try to get the Irishman a bout with Battling Siki. Harris was successful. So was Mike. McTigue will start for New York within a few weeks. He will battle either Gene Tunney or Johnny Wilson.

SARAZEN TELLS ABOUT INTERLOCKING GRIP

By GENE SARAZEN,
World's Golf Champion

Recently I read a golf article in which the writer criticised my grip—rather he was criticising the interlocking grip, which I use on all shots up to the chip to the hole. He said the interlocking grip was practically useless for most golfers. The writer gave no reasons for his opinion and therefore his criticism, so far as I am able to judge, was valueless.

Gene Sarazen

I'll grant that the interlocking grip is not practical for all. Neither is the old-fashioned grip, nor the overlapping grip. Each individual must adopt the grip that is best suited for his or her hands.

Gripping the club properly is essential if one wishes to progress in golf. That means that one must do a bit of experimenting before finally adopting any grip.

For instance, those—and they include the great majority—who use the overlapping or Vardon grip do not put all the fingers of the right hand on the club in the same way. Jack Hutchison overlaps, but he does not allow his little finger to overlap the first finger of the left hand. That is because of the size of his hands. Jack has unusually large palms, to which are attached long and powerful digits. But every golfer's hands aren't so large as Jack's.

Gone Copied Grip from Francis Ouimet

Hagen, Barnes, Evans, Bobby Jones and Vardon all overlap one finger only. And Francis Ouimet, from whom I copied the interlocking grip, holds the left thumb straight down the shaft in the palm of the left hand, whereas I bend the thumb underneath the shaft.

I consider this grip to be so powerful as any ever originated. Willie Anderson was the first to use it. And all of the old-timers will tell you that no one could hit a ball further or play the game better than this Scot.

Johnny McDermott also used the interlocking grip. Surely you wouldn't call him a duffer. Francis Ouimet used the same grip when he won the National Open, and I believe he still holds the club in this manner.

Stars Like Mitchell Use Old-Fashioned Grip

On the other hand, stars like Abe Mitchell, Mike Brady and Sandy Herd use the old-fashioned grip.

Yet Brady teaches the overlapping to most of his pupils because this grip is more adaptable to the average player than any other. I also teach the pupils to grip the club in this manner, provided the interlocking grip is uncomfortable or unsuited for them.

The trouble with the old-fashioned grip is that it tends to produce a sliced ball. The criticism of the interlocking grip is that it gives one a tendency to hook—yet that is a trouble I seldom experience. As a matter of fact I am more apt to push my shot than I am to hook.

The interlocking grip is bad if you overswing, as the right hand overrides. I use a stroke that is little more than three-quarters—I used to overswing, but eventually cut down my back swing to conform to my grip and to keep the stroke more compact.

GARDNER IN BID FOR FRIEDMAN'S RING TITLE

By RINGSIDE.

Spencer Gardner, Newport, R. I., bantamweight, says he will be the New England bantamweight champion after his ten-round bout with Abe Friedman, which will be staged by the Armory A. A. at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night.

Here are a few of the bright spots in Gardner's record which leads him to believe he will put the skids under Friedman:

Won popular decisions over Danny Edwards, Mickey Belmont, Red Chapman and Jack Wolfe.

The bout tomorrow night will be at 120 pounds at 3 o'clock. The articles of agreement specify that it is for the New England bantamweight championship.

A large delegation of Rhode Island rooters will come to Boston to back Gardner. They can't see how a coach who has beaten Edwards, Martin and Montreal can fail to win over Friedman.

The New England champion is boxing in brilliant style. In his last start he won over Young Mack of Camden, N. J., in rather impressive style. Friedman is out to get a bout with Pancho Villa, so he cannot afford to lose to Gardner.

There will also be two fights, Whitey Welsh of the North End will clash with Al Lewis of the South End, while Walter Lee of Denver will oppose Young Brady of Syracuse.

COLUMBIA CREW IN RIVER WORK

New York, March 19.—Coach Jim Rice of the Columbia crew announced that river work for the Blue and White crew candidates would begin Wednesday afternoon, when he will boat the varsity, freshman and 150-pound aspirants on the Harlem from the new class of 1897 Arts and Mines Boathouse on Baker Field.

Rea Nelson, a member of last year's varsity shell, who had been rowing at No. 7 in the junior varsity this season, has been moved up to the first boat, with Albert S. Mayo being relegated to the "Jayvee" shell. Of the six remaining veterans of the first octet available, Rice now has four in the first boat, namely Captain Franklin Irving, No. 6; Irving Cooper, No. 4; Bill Ferris, No. 5, and Rea Nelson, No. 3.

American, as Usual, Had Exclusive on McTigue Victory

Only one Boston evening paper went to the trouble and expense to make special cable arrangements for the story of the fight in Dublin on St. Patrick's Day, when Mike McTigue rescued the light heavyweight championship from Battling Siki, the Senegalese, who had defeated Carpentier.

Only one Boston evening paper gave its readers the result of that stirring victory, round by round, on the afternoon of St. Patrick's Day.

TECH FIVE WON PLENTY OF GLORY

The Technology basketball season was successful. The Cardinal and Gray won eight games out of fifteen played, and scored 362 points against 361.

When the season opened things looked bad. Great difficulty was encountered in securing the services of an expert coach, but a short time before the first game, Ralph West, a former well-known athlete took the Tech squad in hand and succeeded in putting a fairly fast five on the floor.

In the material that presented itself there were a number of veterans of last year's squad, but Coach West found that the scoring machine was far from perfect. By careful study he finally decided to shift Captain Cook from a guard position to forward and use Mike Miller as his mate. Johnston, who was a star on the freshman team last year, took Cook's place at guard.

The new lineup proved very effective. It was noticed that the team scored far oftener than formerly and was able to hold its own in a far better manner than before. Miller showed himself to be the most consistent scorer on the team in shooting both goals and fouls, and he was responsible for a large part of the score in many of the games.

Captain Cook ran a close second to Miller in scoring. Cab Hubbard, on the defense, played a brilliant game all through the season, while Coleman at centre played a somewhat erratic brand of basketball at times.

LOU BOGASH TO BATTLE PALMER

New York, March 19.—Andy (Kid) Palmer and Lou Bogash have been matched to box fifteen rounds at the Rink Sporting Club, Brooklyn, next Saturday night.

RACING OPENS AT BOWIE DAY AFTER EASTER

By TASKER OGLE.

Baltimore, March 19.—Horsemen and horses are gathering in Maryland for the Spring racing of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, the Hartford Agricultural and Breeders' Association and the Maryland Jockey Club, which will take up all of April and the first fortnight of May and be characterized by the distribution among horsemen of $500,000—$150,000 each by the Southern Maryland and Hartford Association and $200,000 by the Maryland Jockey Club.

The Southern Maryland Agricultural Association will usher in the season of Eastern racing at Prince George Park, which will have no competition. But Spring racing will begin in Kentucky—at Lexington—while the Eastern horses are at Havre de Grace in the last fortnight of April, and at Jamaica, Long Island, in early May just after the start at Pimlico.

Some 1,500 thoroughbreds will have assembled at the four Maryland courses—Bowie, Laurel Park, Havre de Grace and Pimlico—and the old Bennings plant before the end of the month.

Bowie racing will be supported mainly by Winter track campaigners from New Orleans and Havana. But there will be a few early birds from Bennings owned by Harry Payne Whitney, Edward R. McLean, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Samuel Ross, George Wingfield, William P. Burch, Joseph E. Davies and J. S. Tyree. Also a contingent from the big establishment of Montford Jones racing at Prince Georges Park.

Jones Stable Was One of the Big Winners

The Jones stable, of which Rockminster and Out Out are members, was one of the big winners of 1922. It finished $154,000 to the good.

Trainer Kay Spence wintered the Jones string at Audley Park in Northern Virginia, which was the home of the beautiful Nellie Parke Curtis and is now the domicile of B. B. Jones' million-dollar thoroughbred nursery. Spence has fifteen or twenty of various ages ready for Bowie racing.

Last Spring at Havre De Grace, Willis Sharpe Kilmer of Binghamton, finished racing by beating a field of exceptionally fast sprinters in the $5,000 Harford handicap, a dash of six furlongs, with the distance running champion Exterminator.

Brought Extermination to Havre de Grace

Kilmer's trainer, Eugene Wayland, who died suddenly recently, brought Exterminator with some fifteen or twenty members of the Kilmer stable, back to Havre De Grace ten days ago. Exterminator was lame at Pimlico last November for the first time in five and a half years of racing campaigning, but is sound again.

One of Exterminator's stable companions is the astonishing filly, Sally's Alley, a product of the Sun Briar Court stud owned by Kilmer, and the winner last season of renewals of the $55,000 Belmont Park and one of the divisions of the $50,000 Maryland Futurity.

Sally's Alley Easily Topped Two-Year-Olds

Sally's Alley earned $95,000 all told and easily topped the two-year-olds. She is pointing for the Preakness and Kentucky Derby renewals, $50,000 specials for three-year-olds exclusively that will be run at Pimlico, Baltimore and Churchill Downs, Louisville, on May 12 and 19, respectively.

Oceanic, star of the Glen Riddle string of Samuel D. Riddle, the man who raced Man-o'-War and owns the world famous super-horse, should be one of the attractions of the coming Havre De Grace card.

Oceanic wintered at Riddle's place in Worcester county, on Maryland's Eastern Shore, where Man-o'-War put in the Winter of 1919-1920.

Oceanic Will Not Make Another Man-o'-War

That Oceanic will make another Man-o'-War is improbable. Superhorses appear at widely spaced intervals. But the black son of The Finn is a lot better than an empty stall.

He whipped Lucky Hour, Paragon and Exterminator at Laurel Park last October in the $23,000 Washington handicap inaugural and then went over to Baltimore to take a renewal of the Pimlico Autumn handicap.

Oceanic's development of class was somewhat retarded by an attack of influenza after his last trained brilliantly through the early Spring.

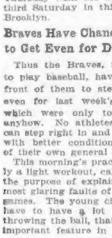
BRAVES BOOK THREE MORE BIG LEAGUE GAMES THIS WEEK

WILL BATTLE AGAINST SENATORS TOMORROW

By NICK FLATLEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 19.—Life is just getting to be one tough ball game after another for the athletes here being moulded into a Braves baseball team. Three more games are on the schedule for the week, although they don't come on consecutive days, and the players aren't absolutely unprepared.



Last week's explosive windup, when three big league games were staged in as many days, was a tough dose for unconditioned players, but it has done the boys good as a matter of fact. They're in pretty good shape right now, and within another seven days will be all ready to go.

There isn't a real cripple in the squad, though a lot of the boys have sunburned lips, which aren't even a little bit of fun, as we can explain from personal experience. The only remedy for the same is to keep in the shade, and with two practice sessions per diem that's more or less impossible.

All the sore arms and legs of the past few days were minor ailments anyhow, and after today's workouts, they won't be even that. It is quite probable that this will be a final two-day seance of the training trip. There is a game here Tuesday, with Washington, another at Bradenton, Thursday with the Cardinals, and a third Saturday in this village, with Brooklyn.

Braves Have Chance to Get Even for Defeats

Thus the Braves, more in shape to play baseball, have a chance in front of them to step out and get even for last week's two defeats, which were only to be expected, anyhow. No athletes in the world can step right in and contest evenly with better conditioned performers of their own general class.

This morning's practice was merely a light workout, called mostly for the purpose of explaining away the most glaring faults of the past three games. The young chaps especially have to have a lot of drilling on throwing the ball, that being a most important feature in the big show.

Two Squads Will Play Nine Inning Game

In the afternoon, a nine inning game will be played between two teams picked from the entire squad. There will be no regular and yankan effect, however, as the players were to be picked so as to insure equal strength for both sides.

Manager Mitchell is satisfied with the way things have gone along here, and is a lot more confident than he was a year ago, when his chances seemed to be much brighter. He has found three or four kids who can hardly be kept out of the big show, and when a manager does that in one Spring, he has real reason for cheering.

Plenty of Opportunity to Get Real Up and Down

With three more weeks in this sunny spot, and a ball game of some sort every day, there will be plenty of opportunity to get the real up and down on all the boys.

Stuffy McInnis, who has been working easily, and Tony Boeckel, who wrenched his knee in the Brooklyn game, the other day, are both in good enough shape now to get into the picture, and chances are the pair will be started against the Senators on the morrow.

The young men spent the customary tourist Sunday. Joe Oeschger took a gang out fishing. Hank Gowdy, Stuffy McInnis and Rube Marquard went out to the golf course and tried to knock tangoes with the little gutta perchas. Practically everybody else stepped into the ocean, as the day was extremely torrid.

MEDFORD HIGH BOASTS OF VETERAN NINE

By FRED C. LANE.

Medford High's ball tossers have hammered at the door where championships are stored for three years without success. If ever those portals will be opened this is the year.

Coach Jim Mansfield has the team that finished second in the League fight in 1920 this year at hand for this year's campaign. He has a sweet lot of pitchers and catchers in addition to some mighty brilliant infielders.

With the exception of Charlie Odams, who pitched his arm out, last year's team is intact. Coach Mansfield has never missed a bet and will use Odams at second base. That will strengthen the batting average.

Sam Dodge and Al Andrews, two youngsters who brought credit to Medford last year, have worked in the cage for three weeks. Dick Phelan, who did the brunt of the catching last season, has been shifted to short stop. Phelan is a brainy catcher and all that, but Bill Leary and "Blakie" Maufre are both capable of handling that business. They gave Coach Mansfield the chance to put the hitting ability of Phelan to good use.

Martin and Woods Oldtimers on Diamond

Eddie Martin and "Ollie" Woods are both "old timers" in scholastic baseball circles and are out to better their creditable performances of last year. There is a raft of young pitchers.

The best are Edgar Mickelson and George Kee. Last season these kids did considerable bench work and absorbed inside baseball. Either is capable of facing the stiffest assignment that may be given.

Squad Has Worked in Gym for Three Weeks

There is some talk about "Hank" Moore trying for a position on the nine after the track season closes. He will have a tough fight displacing the present holders of the infield positions.

The squad has been working out in the Medford Gym for three weeks. As soon as the snow melts to allow outdoor work Coach Mansfield and his squad will be found on the high school field daily for the rest of the season.

The Medford High relay team, holders of the State one-lap relay record, will take part in the Penn Relay Carnival. The team will practice till race time on the board track of Tufts College.

Lowell's Opening Game Is With Townsend

Lowell High School's ball players have only a few weeks in which to get ready for the lengthy schedule that Faculty Manager Conway has arranged. The team will play the opening game with Townsend High at Lowell April 19.

* * *

The remainder of the schedule is as follows: April 21 at Haverhill, April 23, Nashua, April 26, St. John's Prep at Danvers, May 1, Boston English; May 5, Fitchburg; May 9, at Lawrence; May 12, at Manchester; May 16, Methuen, May 19, Haverhill; May 26, at Methuen; May 31, Lawrence; June 2, Manchester; June 6, at Fitchburg; June 9, at Nashua.

Broderick Has Started to Win for Salem

Coach Bill Broderick has started to win championships for Salem High. The basketball team won the Essex County championship by defeating Lynn Classical High, claimant to the title, in two successive games.

* * *

The "reggies" is all that is on the minds of Boston's high school athletes. Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week will be full of excitement at the East Armory, where the races will be held. New records are expected in all divisions.

HARVARD SPARRING FOR TITLES TODAY

There are 45 entries for the Harvard boxing championships. They will be held at the Hemenway Gymnasium.

The preliminaries will be held this afternoon and next week the finals will be held at the same place.

No champions of last year have entered to defend their titles, but Ross Daggett, who won the 145-pound championship, has entered in the middleweight division. Hal Freeman, wrestling captain, who won the 175-pound championship titles two years running has entered in the 145-pound class.

Others who will take part in this afternoon's session will be V. H. Kugel, 115-pound class; G. G. Tunnell, 125-pound class; W. H. Lewis and H. I. Hartley, who will be seen in the battle for the 135-pound crown.

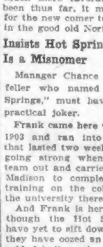
NEW INFIELDER TO JOIN THE RED SOX

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 19.—A new infielder will join the Red Sox squad within the next two weeks.



His name and team has not been revealed by the Red Sox officials here, but he is said to be a star semi-pro from the Middle West, who is sponsored by Jimmy Archer, scout for Manager Frank Chance, and Archer's comment was "he looks and acts like Heinie Zimmerman and is ripe for big league baseball."

The expected signing of this new player bears out a prediction made in this column more than a week ago, and the arrival of that player should do much toward strengthening the cushion covering combination of the Frazee team, for with Pittinger still a holdout, Chick Fewster stands as the only available experienced infielder who could be called upon in an emergency, to take the place of Johnnie Mitchell, Howard Shanks or Norman McMillan, who seem to have won the regular berths as shortstop, second baseman and third baseman, respectively.

But, unless the weather becomes much more favorable than it has been thus far, it might be as well for the new recruit to do his training in the good old North.

Insists Hot Springs Is a Misnomer

Manager Chance insists that the feller who named the Spa "Hot Springs," must have been a great practical joker.

Frank came here with the Cubs in 1903 and ran into a snow storm that lasted two weeks, and was still going strong when he pulled the team out and carried the players to Madison to complete their Spring training on the college campus of the university there.

And Frank is here again, and, although the Hot Springs heavens have yet to sift down a snow storm, they have oozed an ample supply of cold, drizzling rain, and the temperature, except for two or three hours, of two or three days, has been hovering lovingly in the neighborhood of Miss Annastacia Frost at 32 Thermometer street.

Says That It's Cold Like Healthy Dog's Nose

"Where do they get that 'hot stuff?" queries the Red Sox boss each time he sticks his nose out the hotel door. "It's been hot like a healthy pup's proboscis on my two visits here. If the springs are hot, and I have yet to be convinced—you can put it down for a kindly act of Nature, for if everything was as cold as the weather, the natives would freeze to death.

A spell of freezing weather, garnished with cloudy skies, caused Secretary Larry Graver to postpone the scheduled Sunday game between the regs and the yans until tomorrow afternoon. This will be the last regular nine inning battle for the rival squadsmen in Hot Springs, as the Red Sox-Pirates series is due to start on Saturday.

Nemo Leibold Makes One More in Party

The rather thin list of outfield candidates here in camp was increased by one last night, when Nemo Leibold arrived from his home in Detroit, and the full outfield strength will be on hand [illegible] day, when Shortie Collins, who leaves Pittsfield today, completes the southward voyage.

Leibold was granted an extension on the reporting date owing to the illness of his father, who was operated upon last week, and had sufficiently recovered to permit the departure of his son on last Friday.

A new baby in the family of Collins was the detaining factor in Shano's case. As each of the veteran outfielders has or will report in excellent condition, the merry battle for regular outfield berths will be on this week.

$29,870 PURSE FOR TIA JUANA CLASSIC

By TAD

Written for Cosmopolitan News Service.

The Coffroth handicap will be run Sunday.

Down at Tia Juana next Sunday the Coffroth handicap will be run off, and the winning horse will draw down $29,870, which is more money than was ever given before for an all-age race in America.

Entries for the big sprint are so large that Coffroth is thinking of widening the track.

Special trains will be run from San Francisco for the big event, and the greatest crowd of the season is expected at the Mexican merry-go-round.

DON'T YOU WONDER, TOO?

We still wonder why such fighters as Tom Gibbons, Billy Miske, Willie and Fred Fulton are never mentioned when the careful managers of white hopes talk about the shifty of their men.

What a lot of bunk there is about the heavyweight division.

The heavyweight managers spend more time DUCKING opponents than their men do FIGHTING.

SPEAKING OF LOSSES AND THE LIKE

Sam Berger, who was formerly amateur heavyweight champion of the United States and who is now in the retail clothing business in San Francisco, has left New York after a merry time.

Sam was one of the backholders at the recent six-day race, and played the Garden five of the six nights.

On Saturday night after Goulet's great finish Sam was walking out through the lobby when a very excited individual rushed up to him and yelled:

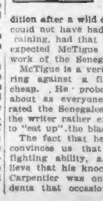
"They copped my coat during the sprint. I got up to cheer for Goulet and they grabbed my benny. They stole it; they STOLE it!"

"Well," piped Sam, squinting his eyes and continuing his walk, "do you want ME to cry about it?"

McTIGUE'S BOXING STYLE IS NOT EXCITING

By DAMON RUNYON.

New York, March 19.—Mike McTigue, Irish born, but developed as a boxer in American rings, is a tall, angular middleweight, thirty-one years old, with a rich brogue, and an unexciting style of fighting.



As a ring man he may be described best as "tough." He is a plodder, cautious, his style lacks dash and flare. A McTigue battle is not a thrilling event.

Oddly enough, for all his lack of zip and ginger, McTigue frequently has been found in front on more than a hundred battles. And that's the place to be.

The surprise is the fact that Siki went twenty rounds with McTigue and held the stubborn middleweight so close that some spectators disagreed with the decision.

The writer did not think that Siki, who is said to have gone to Ireland still in a half-drunken condition after a wild debauch, and who could not have had time for decent training, had that much ability. He expected McTigue to make short work of the Senegalese.

McTigue is a veritable wolf in the ring against a fighter he holds cheap. He probably rated Siki about as everyone else over here rated the Senegalese. That is why the writer rather expected McTigue to "eat up" the black.

The fact that he failed to do so convinces us that Siki has some fighting ability, although we believe that his knockout of Georges Carpentier was one of those accidents that occasionally upset the "form," and that has many parallels in the ring, or that it was as Siki himself claimed, a double-cross of Carpentier after Siki had agreed to "lay down."

GOLF CHAMPION IS AT PINEHURST, N. C.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 19.—Miss Glenna Collett, holder of the national and North and South golf championship titles, who has entered for the women's North and South tournament Friday, has arrived here.

CHAMPIONSHIP HOCKEY GAMES AT ARENA

Championship hockey between the B. A. A., which won two games at St. Paul last week, and St. Paul are booked for Thursday and Saturday at the Arena. It is almost a foregone conclusion that the B. A. A. will win the national title and bring for the second time in two years the blue ribbon of American ice sport to this city.

The Unicorn is almost sure to win one of the games, but if the Apostles should come through and win both and make the series even Boston fans will be even more fortunate, for the fifth and deciding game will be played here. The end of March will come the hockey season. Next week the international contests, the world's series of hockey between the Canadian champions and either B. A. A. or St. Paul will be held at the Arena. So the hockey season will end in a blaze of glory this and next week.

This will be a busy week, for six games are booked. However, there will be one quiet night, for there is no game scheduled for Wednesday. There will be a double-header on Friday. The St. Paul team will practice for the championship tilts on Wednesday.

A little world's series, the game for the internations' intercholastic title, will be played on Friday between the Earl Gray team of Lachine, Quebec, and Melrose, the best school team in and around Boston.

Aura Lee, of the Canadian Ontario Hockey Association, the only team that defeated B. A. A. when the Unicorn could present its full strength, returned to Boston today for its second series, to play the Boston Hockey Club tonight and Boston Eagles tomorrow night.

Dinsmore in centre ice and Cotton in right wing were ice stars of an all-star group on Aura Lee's last visit. The team is well balanced and composed of hard working, tireless players, everyone a speedster, everyone a magnificent stick handler.

BASKETBALL TITLE GOES TO READING

Reading won the championship in the Middle-Essex Interscholastic Basketball League. Lexington and Methuen were knotted for second place and Belmont and Johnson of North Andover were tied for fourth place.

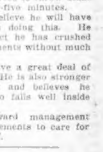
Reading went through the season with seven straight league victories.

Basketball Game Thursday

The basketball five of the Stanley Hill Post, No. 28, American Legion, of Lexington, will close their season on Thursday evening against the Bogon Whirlwinds.

CALZA INTENDS TO SHOW UP STASIAK

George Calza, Italian heavyweight wrestling champion, will enter Thursday night's bout with Stanley Stasiak at the Grand Opera House with more determination than he has ever shown before.



Calza is bitter against the Pole for some of the unkind thrusts the latter has made about his wrestling ability.

It will be remembered that when Calza failed to appear for his tussle with Stasiak on Washington's birthday the Polish champion charged that Calza was yellow. He later posted $1,000 to bind a bout with Calza. The latter surprised Stasiak by covering the money and asking that it go as a side bet.

Stasiak has agreed to throw Calza twice in seventy-five minutes.

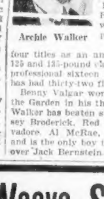
He does not believe he will have any difficulty in doing this. He points to the fact he has crushed most of his opponents without much effort.

Stasiak will have a great deal of weight on Calza. He is also stronger than the Italian and believes he will gain his two falls well inside of an hour.

The Old Howard management has made arrangements to care for a capacity crowd.

ARCHIE WALKER BATTLES GREEN

Archie Walker, one of the most promising lightweights in this country, will have Solly Green of Montreal as an opponent in a ten-round bout at Worcester tonight.



Archie Walker

Walker is a big favorite with up-State fans as a result of his recent win over Sailor Byrne. New England lightweight champion.

Walker won four titles as an amateur, 108, 115, 125 and 135-pound classes. He turned professional sixteen months ago and has had thirty-two fights, losing one.

Benny Valgar won over Archie at the Garden in his third "pro" fight. Walker has beaten such boys as Patsy Broderick, Red Mack, Phil Salvadore, Al McRae, Freddy Walsh, and is the only boy to win a decision over Jack Bernstein.

Mediterranean Mecca for Many Boston Society Folk at Present, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

SOMEONE said the other day that the Mediterranean must be swarming with Americans. To judge by the hordes who're cruising on it, or in it, or about it, it must be like a regular old home week. It's really quite original to stay at home this season.

Among those sailing about in these regions are the Misses Amey and Jane Peters, who, I believe, are bound for an entire circling of the globe. The two popular sisters, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Y. Peters of Bay State road, are making their trip with Major and Mrs. Charles E. D. Bridge of Washington, where Major Bridge is assistant military attache of the British Embassy.

Francis G. Peabody, the well-known Harvard professor, sailed last week for Italy. With him was his daughter, Miss Gertrude Peabody and her friend, Miss Isabella Hopkinson, daughter of the Charles S. Hopkinson, also of Cambridge. Professor Peabody and his party plan to travel through Italy, where so many Irish society folk are lingering into the Spring months.

MRS. LOUIS BACON (Mary Southerland) has arrived in Washington for a short visit with her parents, Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. H. H. Southerland, who are spending the season in the capital at the Grafton. Mrs. Bacon has been spending a part of the Winter in Florida.

TOMORROW afternoon at 3.30 o'clock the most ardent devotees of music among society folk will gather in the drawing room of Mrs. E. Sohier Welch's residence at No. 125 Beacon street.

There will be a talk on Debussy and Faure, the affair boasting a most distinguished sponsorship, including such persons as Richard Aldrich, Mrs. J. Tucker Burr, Mrs. John Saltonstall, Henry D. Sleeper, Mrs. Bayard Warren, Mrs. Joseph S. Fay, Miss Alison Haughton, Mrs. Gorham Brooks, Miss Fanny P. Mason and Malcolm Lang.

There will be another talk a week from tomorrow afternoon—the 27th—when other French composers will be discussed.

MRS. WALTER J. MITCHELL, who gave a buffet supper at her Palm Beach villa the other evening, plans to remain at that popular stamping ground until late in April, when she will go to Cuba to visit her son, John Mitchell, at his sugar plantation there.

The Mitchells have, I believe, been entertaining as their house guest pretty "Sister" Caswell of Pride's Crossing, who returned only recently from travels abroad. The Mitchells are also members of the North Shore colony, their place at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

MRS. THOMAS S. BLUMER of Commonwealth has joined the Boston colony at Hot Springs, where Mrs. D. Alexander Gardner, also of Boston, is expected to arrive shortly to visit Dr. and Mrs Guy C. Hinsdale.

GIFTS OF $16,000 TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. John B. Hawes, 2nd, president of Boston Tuberculosis Association, announced today the receipt of two anonymous gifts. One is a fund of $15,000, the interest of which may be used, and the other is $1,000, which may be disbursed for any need. The money will be used for the enlargement of the Preventorium for Children at Mattapan. A dormitory will be built for boys, and the schoolhouse now under construction will be finished.

FONTAINE BABY QUITS JAIL, BUT MOTHER STAYS

Nyack, N. Y., March 19.—Evelyn Browne Fontaine, Oriental dancer and her mother, Mrs. Florence Fontaine, indicted for perjury in connection with the former's $100,000-dollar breach of promise suit against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, today faced another session of the fears of the Rockland County jail.

Refused bail Saturday because property they offered as security was held not acceptable, the two women were locked up, with Mrs. Fontaine's baby son, who figured in the suit against young Whitney.

Their counsel appeared again today, prepared to offer bail which would be acceptable. It was found, however, that Supreme Court Justice Tompkins had gone to White Plains to sit in a case there, and nothing could be done until his return late this evening.

LONDON FEARS ATTACK BY IRISH

London, March 19 (By International News Service).—Extra forces of secret service agents were established over public buildings today by Scotland Yard as the result of reports that the Irish were planning reprisals for the deportation of Republican men and women sympathizers.

It was understood that the Republican sympathizers in England were conspiring to blow up buildings in revenge for the deporting of numerous Irish men and women a week ago.

18 Republicans Are Caught in Tipperary

Belfast, March 19. (By International News Service).—Eighteen Republicans, including a number of important leaders, were arrested by Free State soldiers today at Ballyconnell, County Tipperary.

There was considerable firing in Dublin throughout the night. Colonel MacDonnell of the Free State army was wounded while walking in the street with General Ennis and another officer. Ennis escaped, but his companion was wounded.

LACKS JURISDICTION ON B. & M. MERGER

Washington, March 19.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today dismissed for lack of jurisdiction the application of the Boston & Maine Railroad for authority to acquire by merger the properties and franchises of the York Harbor & Beach Railroad, Sullivan County Railroad, Vermont Valley Railroad, Barre & Chelsea Railroad, Montpelier & Wells River and the Portsmouth, N. H. bridge.

PATROLMAN HAYES OF MATTAPAN DIES

Patrolman Walter J. Hayes of Station 19, Morton street, Mattapan died today at Essex County Sanitarium, Middleton, from tuberculosis. Hayes, who lived at No. 17 Norwell street, Dorchester, contracted pneumonia while doing his duty during a storm a year ago. He recovered, but was in poor health. He was taken sick Christmas and sent to the sanitarium New Year's. He was appointed October 21, 1919. He leaves a wife and two children.

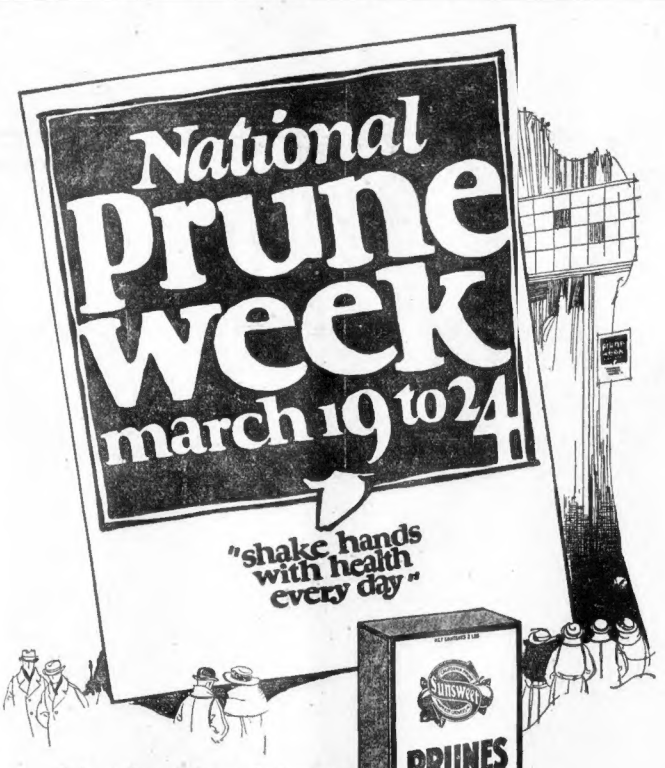
National Prune Week March 19 to 24

"shake hands with health every day"



For five years Sunsweet has been an ambassador-at-large bringing the story of prunes to homes the nation over. Today, thanks to Sunsweet, prunes are no longer just prunes. Prunes have arrived! Prunes belong! Prunes have won their rightful place in the daily diet of America.

It is to stress and impress the every-day importance of prunes that this week has been set aside as National Prune Week. This is a fine time to find out that prunes no longer start and stop with stewed. From salad to soufflé, from coffee cake to steamed pudding—there's no end to the surprise-dishes you can make with this fine fruit-food.

Make it a point to "look in" at your grocer's this week. See the special prune displays he has prepared for you. Ask him why he prefers to sell you Sunsweet Prunes—rich, sugar-full, flavor-full sweetmeats—the finest California produce! And ask him to show you the 2-lb. Sunsweet carton—the new way to buy prunes. Clean, handy, flavor-fresh!

the 2lb. Sunsweet carton

Recipe Packet free! Address California Prune & Apricot Growers Association, 200 Market Street, San Jose, California. 11,000 grower-members.

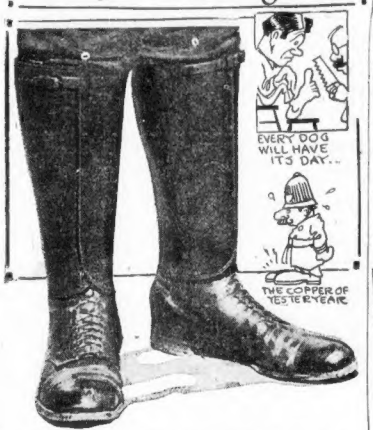
STORIES OF BOSTON TOWN
By Jo Swerling



THE FEET OF OFFICER WILLIAM H. McINTOSH. No Cinderellian doggies, you say? Perhaps not. But wait till the Police Chiro gets through with them. They'll be thoroughbreds then.

THE COP'S BEST FRIENDS

The Old Copper is passing. In his place stands the New Policeman, who is not only a guardian of the peace, but a guardian of the dignity of the city. The reform had a psychological start. It began with a change of the uniform.

It was hard for a policeman to have any pride in himself with the impossible clothes he was forced to wear. The old police rig was duck-soup for the caricaturists. The flapping police coat, the baggy police pants, the horrible helmet—all these items in the police uniform gave members of the force a sheepish complex that prevented them from acquiring he pride, the esprit du corps that is vital to progress.

They tell the story of a policeman—the Old Policeman—who found a dead horse on Kneeland street. The book of regulations required that a copper finding a dead horse must report the matter, with particular reference to where the horse was found. This policeman deliberated for a while, then sighed and dragged the deceased equine eight blocks away to Brown street, and made his report.

Coddling Cops Program Today

Them days is gone forever.

In the old days the favorite public sport was panning the cops. Today they're coddling the cops. The commissioners are taking their cue from the way in which the officers of the Northwest Mounted Police—said to be the greatest police body in the world—handled their men. It is in the palm of those who are responsible for Boston's police force to make it the most able-bodied, able-minded body of men in the world.

A policeman's best friends are his dogs—his feet. In the old days the copper who walked a beat was called a flatfoot. It was the bane of the force. Statistics showed that more policemen had flat feet than any other class of men. When a man donned the blue uniform of the force he figuratively kissed his arches good-bye.

Flat feet may come and flat feet may go, but not in the Boston police force. Captains of all the Boston stations have received an official police communication advising them that a chiropodist is to be assigned whose duty it will be to make a thing of beauty and a joy forever of the police dogs.

Every Police Dog to Be Thoroughbred

He will not only treat the police pedals, but he will give expert instructions as to the picking up and laying down of dogs, their care and protection and ways and means to preserve them in the pristine perfection and symmetry with which nature designed them. It is the aim of the police chiro to see that every Boston cop has tellbies rivalling the noted tootsies of Cinderella. Corns are to be cut, bunions banished and all unsightly bumps eliminated.

With every police dog a thoroughbred, pounding the pavements will lose its terrors. Walking the beat will be the daily constitutional. It is said that the Boston coppers are due in the near future to get dancing lessons, in order to still further perfect their beef.

Already the Boston cop has been taught what to do in a case of suffocation, of gas asphyxiation, of drowning. A special swimming class has been started to teach members of the force how to become Kellermans. Every other member of the force spends as much time reading books on etiquette as he does reading the book of police rules. The percentage of literacy is on the increase. The Boston police department today is in the nature of a finishing school. Raw rookies come in and by the time they graduate they are refined cops. They are polished, pared, trimmed and done up like debutantes. They are taught what to do in every conceivable emergency and what to do when there is no emergency.

So far, the only thing that hasn't been done to the Boston cop is the grafting of monkey glands.

If ever a superman is evolved out of this town, the apotheosis of male perfection will be a copper.

SACCO TO GAIN HEALTH, SAY PHYSICIANS

Nicola Sacco will recover from his thirty-one-day hunger strike. Physicians at Boston Psychopathic Hospital declared today that he is gaining steadily and well on the road to convalescence.

Dr. Arthur Puttrell reported the accused slayer had spent a comfortable night and had slept soundly for more than four hours.

On his mental condition there is as yet no verdict, however.

"He is under observation. Time must elapse before his mental condition can be definitely determined," is the latest word from Dr. William Franklin Wood, chief executive officer at the hospital.

Nicola Sacco.

On this, the third day in which Sacco has taken nourishment, the physicians may amplify the menu under which the prisoner has been fed. Up to today his diet has been restricted to barley broth, whites of eggs and orange juice.

As a result of this treatment, his condition rapidly approaches normal. Temperature close to normal at 98, pulse 66, fair under the circumstances, and breathing 20 close to what it should be, are the latest figures made public at the hospital.

Sacco reclined on his cot, propped up on pillows, as he received his daily visit from his wife, who was accompanied by his chief counsel, Fred H. Moore. Another visitor was Mrs. Glendower Evans.

LYNN MAN DROPS DEAD IN THEATRE

Eugene Simpson, a leading breeder of canary birds in this section, dropped dead in the office of Gordon's Olympia Theatre, Lynn, today. He was employed in the theatre as superintendent of janitors. He was fifty-two years of age. He is survived by his wife, who lives in Gloucester, and by his mother and two sisters, who reside at No. 517 Harrison avenue, Boston. Death was due to heart failure.

25 "SONNY BOY" NOTES READ IN COURT TODAY

Twenty-five more of the so-called "Sonny Boy" love letters, written by Robert E. Dickerman to his wife, Mrs. Eugenie L. Dickerman were read today at the continuation of the trial of her $100,000 suit against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Minnie L. Dickerman, for alleged alienation of Robert's affections. These letters were read in the previous trial.

WEDDING OF PHILLIPS IS OFF

Romance of Wealthy Fish Man and Swampscott Girl Crashes

Herbert F. Phillips, the middle-aged, wealthy Boston and Swampscott wholesale fish dealer, and Miss Pauline Merluzzi, twenty-two-year-old Swampscott beauty, cancelled at oBston City Hall today the marriage intentions they had filed March 13.

They gave no reason for the crash of their romance. Mr. Phillips said they would not be married at any time in the future.

Mr. Phillips is the man for whose love Miss Isabelle Raymond committed suicide in her apartment in Huntington avenue two years ago.

Mr. Phillips, who is forty-nine, is president of the H. F. Phillips Fish Company of Atlantic avenue. He is one of the defendants in the so-called "Fish Trust" cases in which convictions have just been sustained by the Supreme Court.

SAID THEY WERE WED.

When Mr. Phillips and Miss Merluzzi took out their marriage intentions March 13 she stated it would be her first marriage.

But, before the expiration of the usual five-day period required by law, Miss Merluzzi wrote to the newspapers a statement that she had been married to a Henry L. Cabot Lodge of Beverly, in June 1919, that she had divorced him January 10, 1922, that she and Mr. Phillips ha dbeen married recently in Providence and that the reason they were to have a second marriage was because Bay State laws made it necessary.

QUESTIONS GIRL.

Mr. Phillips had previously called up and announced he was on his way hither.

They talked with Assistant Registrar Joseph A. Cahalan. He asked Miss Merluzzi why, if she had been married and divorced, she had said on the intentions that the Phillips marriage would be her first one and, if she had not been married before, why she had told the newspapers so since then.

The girl denied flatly today that she had ever been married to or divorced from Cabot or anyone else, or that she and Phillips had been married in Providence.

When Mr. Cahalan asked why she told the newspaper so, she replied, with tears welling in her big, dark eyes:

DID IT ON IMPULSE.

"I did it to save my faces with my people, Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Merluzzi, respected residents of Swampscott. I did it under an impulse of the moment, while under a nervous strain."

She and Phillips then agreed to cancellation of the marriage intentions.

Miss Merluzzi started out to the taxicab in which they had come to City Hall. Mr. Phillips was asked:

"Are you and Miss Merluzzi going to be married at any time?"

"No," he replied, "absolutely."

THIS IS PRUNE WEEK; EVERYBODY EAT SOME

This is National Prune Week. Everybody will be asked to eat a dish of prunes once a day, every day, for the next seven days. National Prune Week last year sold 10,000,000 pounds of California prunes throughout the United States and was so successful in attracting attention to this fruit that the growers unanimously voted to observe National Prune Week every year and back it up by extensive advertising and merchandising campaigns, which would direct the attention of the public to this fruit during the week.

Weeks Heads List of Notables in War Reserves

Washington, March 19.—Five Cabinet officers, past or present, stand pledged as reserve officers to answer a call to the colors.

Secretary Weeks is a rear admiral of the naval reserve, Secretary Work of the Interior Department is a colonel in the medical reserve of the army.

Newton D. Baker, Wilson's Secretary of War, is a colonel in the judge advocate-general's division; Henry L. Stimson, War Secretary under Taft, is a brigadier-general, advocate-general's department, and Will Hays, former Postmaster-General, a lieutenant-colonel in the adjutant-general's division.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa is a lieutenant-colonel of infantry. Numerous reserve officers will be members of the House in the Sixty-eighth Congress.

NEW EVIDENCE FOR PAPPAS IS FOUND

Mrs. Alice Arsenault, slain in her rooming house on Columbus avenue, was not murdered between noon of December 24 and morning of December 26, as the government alleged in its case against Paul Pappas, accused of the murder.

This is the belief of John W. Schenck, attorney for the young Greek, who is fated to die one day this week unless he is granted a stay of execution or a new trial.

Paul Pappas.

Mr. Schenck informed the Boston American that he had received information to the effect that Mrs. Arsenault was actually seen alive on a later date than that which Joseph Sifkakis, a roomer in the Columbus avenue house, fixed as the time he saw Mrs. Arsenault on a couch in the kitchen of the house.

All his efforts, Mr. Schenck says are being directed to locating a person who saw Mrs. Arsenault after she was supposed to have been murdered and buried in the ashes in the basement of the lodging house.

Pappas was to have been executed tomorrow night at 11:20. In order to give his attorney a little more time to round up witnesses in substantiate his claim of new evidence, the date of the execution has been set forward.

WOULD ABOLISH COUNTY JOBS

A demand for a special legislative investigation of the political powers, rights and duties of county officials was demanded by Representative Renton Whidden, of Brookline, today at a hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee on Counties and State Administration. Whidden said before the railroads, telephone and telegraph came into existence there was need of county government, but now he felt governments could be abolished.

County Commissioner John L. Bryant of Bristol County declared counties are too much maligned by those constant attempts to centralize public activities at the State House.

KIN FIGHT PARDON OF LIFER

Wife and Children Oppose Effort of Scots to Free James Barr

By HAROLD R. HALL.

"To have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish and obey till death do us part."

More than thirty years ago Mrs. James Barr of No. 25 Merriam parkway, Fitchburg, stood beside James Barr and subscribed to the above. After the minister had pronounced them man and wife James folded her in his arms and kissed her.

Today James Barr is serving a life sentence in the State prison at Charlestown for a statutory offence. He has been there twenty-three years and is now fifty-six years old.

Today he is appealing to the Governor and the parole board for a pardon.

WIFE BLOCKS FREEDOM.

Frank H. Cowin.

Today the woman who took him "for better or worse — till death do us part"—is standing between James Barr and freedom. She is opposing his release.

James Barr is not asking Mrs. Barr to take him back. He is not asking that he be allowed to return to Fitchburg. He asks but the right to go forth into the world at the beginning of the autumn of lifeonce more a free man. But Mrs. Barr says "No."

CHILDREN OPPOSE PARDON.

The fight to free Barr has been carried on by his friends for four years. The leader is Frank H. Cowin, former member of the Massachusetts Legislature from Dorchester. Scottish organizations throughout the State are behind Barr, who is said to be the only Scot in the State Prison.

When James Barr went to prison twenty-three years ago he left behind him a daughter, Elizabeth, a daughter, Isobella, and a son, William.

Isobella Barr, daughter of James Barr, stood up before the parole board at the hearing on her father's petition for freedom, and at length opposed it. She voiced the family opposition to her father's release and claimed that her father is not a fit man to be allowed at large. She said that she and her family would be ill used if he is released.

William, the son, and Mrs. Barr, said not a word. They allowed Isobella to do the talking.

FEELS JUSTIFIED.

Mrs. Barr, a pleasant looking woman of some fifty years, thinks she is justified in opposing the release of her husband.

"I know that the residents of Fitchburg support me in anything I have done," said Mrs. Barr. "That is all I have to say. I give you no reason for anything. I have been advised not to talk. We do not want publicity in this matter. I do not want it to get into the news. I have nothing more to say."

The Barrs are not alone in their opposition to the release of Barr. They are backed up by George Godbeer, editor and owner of the Fitchburg Sentinel, a daily paper. Isobella Barr is a reporter on the Sentinel, and Godbeer is taking an active part in the fight to keep Barr in prison.

Barr was convicted of attacking Miss Eva Elmira Baker at Ashburnham in September, 1900. He was sentenced in October of the same year to life imprisonment. Not long after Barr was sent to Charlestown, Mrs. Barr secured a divorce.

APOSTLE OF BEAUTY WEDS STAGE STAR

MRS. DAVID STURGIS
She was Willette Kershaw who starred in the "Crowded Hour."

Palm Beach, Fla., March 19.—Willette Kershaw, who quit the Drury Lane success "Decameron Nights" when asked to display too generously her physical charms, has arrived here with her latest husband, David Sturgis.

David is known as an "Apostle of Beauty," a poet, a mystic and the son of a Presbyterian clergyman of Boston, who collaborated with J. Rosmond Johnson in writing the London Opera House Revue: "Come Over Here."

The couple were married by Mayor Scott of New Rochelle, N. Y., after several ministers had refused to perform the ceremony because the bride was a divorcee.

Immediately after the wedding they entrained for Florida, where they intend to spend their honeymoon, planning dramas of the South Seas and Egypt, where both have recently sojourned.

Mrs. Sturgis, who starred in the "Crowded Hour" in this country, became one of the stars of the British stage within three years. Then she left it flat because of her modesty. She is the daughter of the late Harry Kershaw, well-known St. Louis newspaperman, and declares herself to be the great granddaughter of Bishop Provost, first bishop of New York. At the time of his death Mr. Kershaw was financial manager for his son-in-law, Thomas Ince, motion picture producer.

Mrs. Sturgis was first married to Albert Morrison, an actor, whom she divorced in 1909. Her present husband is a member of the class of 1909, Amherst College. He is the composer of "Joan of Arc, They're Calling You" and other songs.

STUBBED TOE CAUSES 1 DEATH, 2 INJURED

Hornell, N. Y., March 19.—Eighteen-year-old Laura Granger is recovering at a local hospital today, her father, Leroy, is dying and her seven-year-old brother, Richard, is dead as a result of their being run down by a train on a high bridge here. The mother was the only one of the family to escape without injury. The four Grangers were crossing the bridge when a train approached. Granger was running with his two children to safety when one of them stubbed a toe on the rail and all three fell in front of the engine.

ORDERED IN DIVORCE DECREE

Coggeshall Must Also Give Up Valuable Summer Home and Mining Stocks

By International News Service.

Providence, March 19.—John W. Coggeshall, nephew of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, was today ordered in a divorce decree to pay his wife, Madeline A. Coggeshall, $100,000 and to make various other provisions in her behalf.

Coggeshall is the son of the late Maria E. Fagen, of New Bedford, sister of William M. Wood.

The divorce decree was granted Mrs. Coggeshall today by Judge Barrows in Superior Court.

Coggeshall, who is president of both the Tiltonian Humidifier Company and the Middlebrook Comb Company, is ordered to make over to Mrs. Coggeshall their Rhode Island Summer estate and to pay all taxes and mortgages and to keep it in repair, as well as pay $1,000 for keeping a gardener.

He is also directed to transfer to her some 10,000 shares of Atlantic Gold Mining Company stock and to furnish $50,000 in stocks and bonds as security for payment of the alimony.

The divorce action was brought on the contention that Coggeshall had not lived with his wife for ten years.

400 STRIKE AGAINST BONUS PAY SYSTEM

Springfield, March 19.—About 400 employes of the Chapman Valve Manufacturing Company mostly machinists and helpers, went out on strike today, two hours after going to work, because the company had refused to grant a demand for the substitution of a wage increase of 25 per cent. for the present bonus system. The company employs about 1,000 men. Friendly men and pattern makers do not come under the bonus system, but have a separate working agreement.

WOMAN SAYS 70-YEAR-OLD LURE CHEATED HER

A seventy-year-old lure replaced the dashing young salesman in the Tenants' Home Corporation's alleged real estate swindle, according to Mrs. Christie Hartwell of No. 98 Bowdoin street, who charged the officers with defrauding her of $6,000.

Mrs. Hartwell placed her trust, said Mrs. Hartwell, "First, because Edwin Carpenter, whom a brother named Conlin introduced to me, appeared to be old enough to be above lying, and secondly because the State had granted the company a charter.

"Carpenter, aided by the others, sold me some excellent lots on Broadway, South Boston, for which I gave titles to some Maine property, cash and a bill of sale to my house furniture, all amounting to $6,000.

"A newspaper advertisement offering my lots for sale on account of a foreclosure of mortgage by a Lowell bank caught my eye one day. The Tenants' Home people said it was a mistake and urged me to take their coupon bonds instead of the property. That was their game from the start, to unload their bonds onto me.

"They showed me blueprints of property in various city districts, but after a while I had them investigated and the arrests have resulted."

DRINKER DISCOVERS HIS ROLL MISSING

After having drinks with several other men, James Webb, of No. 10 Monroe street, Beverly, found that $450 which he had in a pocket was missing, he told the Salem police.

CONFESSED SLAYER GETS 20-YEAR TERM

New York, March 19.—Morris Reiser, indicted with his mother, his brother George and his uncle, George Katz, for the murder of his aunt, Miss Bertha Katz, pleaded guilty to second degree murder today. He was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. The other indictments were dismissed.

Miss Katz was slain with a pistol in her home last July. After Morris' arrest, his mother gave herself up, declaring she had fired the fatal shot.

FIND 90-YEAR-OLD LYNN WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Alice A. Leonard, ninety years old, who has been teaching an old School classes at the First Methodist Church, was found dead this afternoon in the kitchen of her home at No. 129 Boston Hill avenue, Lynn. Charles Learned, a son, found the body. She was fully clothed, sitting at the kitchen table. Medical Examiner Nathaniel P. Breed rendered a decision to heart disease.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Jennings Accused Lyons of Being a Criminal of a Worse Character Than Himself Until Ralph Lacy Stopped Him With a Threat

"I'LL thank you to leave me and my life and the ordering of it to your betters," he spat out. "And your betters in this here lady and Mr. Lacy and—me. I ain't no common crook. I was a forger, just a second story man like you, George Lyons."

'I WAS A FORGER'

In one terrible swirl of emotions I realized that I'd always dreaded just such a moment as this. There had never been a chance that Lyons could forever escape the trail of his past. It had always been a foregone conclusion that someone would leap upon him some day and set him off from his fellows with a gleam of the old truth. My heart seemed to stop beating.

All my sympathy was with poor Lyons, standing with bowed head shamed, after all my efforts to help him to stand as a man among men. I tried for the salient word. I stretched out my hand to Lyons, and as Jennings finished his crude tirade I patted my lips to say something—anything. But Ralph Lacy was ahead of me. His voice rang out:

"Jennings, don't act like the yellow cur you're going to stop being! What a man was doesn't count. We're going to give you a chance to prove that. Lyons has buried his past about six feet deep under the corking things he does, and thinks and is today. Mr. Norreys, and Harrison have known him and proved him over and over. He's their friend. And mine, too, I'm proud to say. Now you shut your mouth and keep it shut—eternally—do you hear—or you can go ahead and get the flu and die of it for your ingratitude and yellow dog attitude toward one of the finest."

As he finished he laid his hand for a moment on Lyons' shoulder.

Own Man

"It ends like you helping me. I'm my own man for all time. And thank you kindly, sir, for standing by. But Jennings is sick. He didn't mean no harm, and he didn't do any seeing as how he got you to come out and tell me that you ain't mistrusting me for what was. So he done me a good turn. And I guess he'll never—spill the beans again any more. Now I'll hike in and get his traps and as soon as you say the word we'll be moving, sir."

As he went into the shack, Ralph Lacy stood staring after him.

"There goes a man!" he said. "Yes sir!" cried Jennings with unexpected show of spirit. "And seeing how he took the yellow trick I tried to play on him and how I went for to knife him with them I thought I didn't know. I'll say he's got me for his friend till I cash in. Now let me do what I can for you and the lady. And if you can manage to think I ain't a rattlesnake I'll take it kindly. And I'm much obliged for your lighting on me and making me me what I was up to."

He always came alone after the first time. He talked big—like a racetrack man. He bluffed along at first, always saying the chief would come next time. But I never saw the chief—I don't you call West—again."

"You never saw any one but the little man after that?" I asked timorously skirting any use of a name for him who was undoubtedly Dad Lee.

"I'd not lie to you—now, ma'am," replied the man earnestly, "I dealt with the little rat-terrier of a man for months. Nervous he was as time went on. More and more he acted scairt. And money got tighter and tighter. I never saw the red-mouthed man again. I think the little rat-terrier's the make gu[illegible]

His words puzzled me. The idea they suggested was astounding. But the [illegible] of [illegible] was [illegible] as he repeated:

A Film Romance From the Great Story by FANNIE HURST

Read This Story of Everyday Life on This Page Day by Day and Then Watch for It on the Screen

READ THIS FIRST

In the basement of the Mammoth Department Store Spring has cast a spell among the workers. Angie Sprunt, who has been on the stage, and Sara Juke, in the corset department, firm friends, feel that they should be anywhere but where they are. Jimmy Fitzgibbons, the Beau Brummel of the basement, bangs the piano and sings the latest songs, and Max Pluto, who admires Angie, suggests a trip to the beach. Sara, a pretty girl, longs for the country.

Screen Version Novelized

By Jane McLean

"Yeh, boy, it sure is—these things do slip like the dickens—but say, you're better'n I am—maybe you been here before."

"No, I ain't—I learn when I was a kid—dodging the trucks an' things—an' say, you had to be fast or the morgue for you."

"Jimmy can skate all right—all right," she said. "I wish I could do it like him."

Harry did not take to the praise of Jimmy kindly—the mere fact that his rival's accomplishments threw him into the shade made him angry. And he thought again of what he had heard at the store.

"So that's the reason you wanted to come here," he said. "It wasn't because of me, but you wanted to be around with that feller Jimmy."

"What's the use of talkin' that way, Harry—come on, are you goin' to stand still all night?"

Their efforts to move in unison proved disastrous, and before they knew it their feet were flying from under them and they were seated in the middle of the floor, blocking the path of more experienced skaters, who grinned and wondered why novices came to rinks anyway.

On the Scene

Jimmy was on the scene to witness the humiliation of the hated Harry; it was joy to his heart to see his efforts to rise and his roles was commiserating as he asked if he could help.

"I wish you could learn me to skate," said Sara.

"With pleasure," answered Mr. Fitzgibbons as he tipped his hat to Harry. "Never refused a lady anything."

Sara's question, like her wish, had no bearing on the immediate present, but Jimmy did not wait for a second invitation; he slipped his arm through the girl's and moving away carried her along with him, leaving the astonished Harry wobbling in the middle of the floor, red in the face and helpless into the bargain.

Mr. Pluto and Angie observed his efforts to reach the benches with open merriment; Mr. Fitzgibbons had made good his threat; he had shown Harry up and if expert roller skating could have been taken as the criterion of the perfect gentleman Harry would have been at the dimian end of the scale.

Under the guidance of Jimmy, Sara found her progress a triumph of smoothness and delight. "Atta girl," said Jimmy, "you're a wonder on the skates once you have the right guy to wheel you round. You stick to me, Kid, and I'll show you a thing or two."

Was Waiting

In the pleasure of motion Sara forgot her unhappy escort. After all, it was one thing to stumble with Harry and another to glide with the accomplished Jimmy. The defeated escort sat on a bench and watched with glowering eyes the triumph of his rival. If it occurred to him to be glad because Sara was having a good time he did not show it when the couple passed.

Jimmy and Harry start a row at the skating rink

"I wonder where Harry is—I bet he's waiting for me," said the girl after a few turns.

"Don't you bother your head about him," replied Jimmy. "He's all right wrapping up bundles, but he's a shine on skates."

Nevertheless Sara had a warm spot in her heart for Harry, and insisted on stopping and speaking to him.

Harry turned away without replying.

"He's got a grouch on," said Jimmy. "What's the use of bothering with him?"

"If that's the way he's goin' to act, I'll let him stand—he don't do no tricks with me," she sniffed.

And that might have been the end of their engagement if Sara had really meant it; but she didn't. Long association with Harry had implanted in her a feeling toward him that a stranger man might never have called forth. She was sorry that he had such a cough; she was sorry he was so small, and she looked forward to the time when she might take care of him.

Even when she saw him out of the corner of her eye looking as though he would like to kill Jimmy, she was inclined to forgive him for his outbreak.

"You better take me back," she told Jimmy. "Maybe I was a little rough with Harry."

Mr. Fitzgibbons took her back; lifted his hat and said in a voice especially meant for Harry's ears:

Another Turn

"Thanks, Doll, glad to have another turn with you before the evening's over."

"No, you don't," said Harry, rising unsteadily on his steles and facing his enemy, "an' say, cut out that doll stuff, where do you get off with that talk?"

Harry as a fighter amazed Sara; and it was evident that he was after Jimmy's blood. The girl stepped between.

Harry pushed her aside and made a lunge for Jimmy.

Jimmy was no fighter; he would rather run than fight any day, but with Harry on skates he felt strangely bold.

"Where do you come in buttin' in this way?" repeated Harry. "I'm keepin' company with Sara Juke, an' you know it."

Mr. Fitzgibbons laughed:

"Him hit me—it is to laugh," and he backed gracefully away with a wariness born of long practice after him with what skill he could. Sara, left alone, and seeing that a fight was imminent, provided Harry could catch the offending clerk, wobbled uncertainly and fell.

So occupied was Harry in his frantic efforts to reach Jimmy that he did not even observe Sara's accident. She managed to get to her feet and, skating over to the bench where Angie sat with Mr. Pluto, begged them to interfere and save Jimmy from the wrath of her escort.

In spite of Jimmy's larger physical bulk it might have gone hard with him if Harry had been able to get to him, but skating rinks provide against just such contingencies as this and the battle came to nothing. Both the pursued and the pursuer crashed into a bouncer and landed on the floor in an ignominious heap.

When the guardian of the peace had set them on their feet with no gentle hand, he suggested, in a tone which there was no mistaking, that they had best seek other pastures to settle their differences.

He intimated that he might call a patrol wagon and have them escorted to the police station. Harry could not get to the side lines quickly enough. He was thoroughly scared; to be arrested would mean loss of his place at The Mammoth, and he shuddered to think of that.

He was so excited that he gave orders to Sara, who had joined him, as though he were a martinet: "Hurry up an' get off your skates, we gotta get out of here."

Now, Sara was sorry for Harry. He looked as though he had run up against Jack Dempsey, but she had no mind to allow him to lord it over her in public.

"Don't talk to me that way, I won't stand it—it's all your own fault; you got yourself to blame—makin' a show of yourself that way an' me, too."

Laboring under the excitement of the fracas, Harry looked so forlorn on hearing the girl of his heart upbraid him that she melted at once.

Jimmy smiled. "I ain't through with him yet," he added; "watch me."

Sara, once she was outside the rink, again, expressed her regret at having hurt her escort's feelings, and Harry himself, now in more reasonable mood forgave her freely.

Then, with the folly of one who does not know how to let well enough alone, he tried to exact a promise from Sara. "It's all right, honey—I know you didn't mean nothin', but you got to say right now you'll never speak to that feller Jimmy again."

Sara made no reply. In Harry's mind her silence gave consent, and they managed to exchange the usual loverlike assurances before they separated for the evening.

Alive With the News

The basement of The Mammoth was alive with the news the next morning. Exaggerations were in order; the near-battle in which the two men figured was transformed into a bloody encounter in the middle of the rink, with wild-eyed policemen trying in vain to pull the angry combatants apart.

As a result, each was a hero to his own particular followers. The principals glowered at each other, greatly adding to the delight of the audience, and a further appeal to arms was looked for at any moment.

The cause of the trouble was also a centre of attraction. "I bet she'll give that kid the go-by," Angie confided to Mr. Pluto.

ENEMIES OF WOMEN

TALE OF MONTE CARLO DURING WAR

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez.

MICHAEL had thrown both his arms around her shoulders, mastering her, drawing her forward. His lips sought hers; but she made an effort to resist by turning away sharply. Finally the mask of protest ceased. Both heads remained motionless.

"Michael! . . . Michael!" she sighed, freeing herself for a moment from the caress. But a moment later she submitted again to those lips which pursued hers so eagerly.

When she spoke again it was in a tone of surrender. She was suddenly back in her past life, trembling at the contact of all those foreign things which seemed absolutely new through long continence. Michael's ardent lips had overpowered her, awakened her from a dream that had lasted for years, from a sleep longer and deeper than Michael's.

She forgot everything around her. Her eyes were still open, but the vision of the sea, the golden sunset in the sky, and even the pines boughs forming a canopy above their heads had disappeared from her gaze.

Suddenly she saw them all once more, and at the same time she drew back her shoulders, repelling him.

"No, I won't. . . . Stop! Someone will see us!"

A Change of Mood

The Prince was an athlete, but his emotion awakened him. Besides, his energy was scattered in the double effort of trying to master the woman and at the same time enjoy her caress in the overwhelming fury of his passion. She bent and straightened several times with all the suppleness of a reptile and finally succeeded in escaping from the chain of his arms.

Lubimoff, coming to himself again, saw Alicia standing in front of him, drawing her hands to her hair, to her tilted hat and the boa, which had slipped from her shoulders.

"Let us go," she said, with angry brevity.

And the Prince, repenting his violence, followed her, crestfallen. After walking a few steps, she seemed moved by the silence which showed his repentance, and smiled again.

"I must warn you," she said, shaking a teasing finger at Michael, "that if you return to your old tricks, I shall call for help. Do you promise myself by your Word of honor? . . . All right; go ahead; I don't trust you."

He went ahead down the stairway to explore. The walls of the Museum seemed to expand as they continued to descend. Besides the building with its roof at their feet there was a second building below, rising from the rocky slopes with its stone walls pierced by large windows. At a turn of the path, the Prince faltered to wait for his companion. She was slowly descending, maintaining a distance of several steps between them. With the lightness of a spring which is released, Michael slipped up the several steps that separated them and with his arms embraced that adorable body. He could not climb any farther! Alicia's hands repulsed his arm with a nervous violence.

She was angry at her helplessness; she could not escape him.

"Let me go! It's ridiculous! Stop!"

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today unlucky if you WORRY

THE indications for today are neither too favorable, and discomfort and worry may be anticipated.

It is not advisable to make any important decisions today, and care must be exercised to steer clear of deception on the part of others.

Because the planetary aspects indicate worry, it does not necessarily follow that you must be subject to it; because discomfort is threatened it does not necessarily follow that you must be uncomfortable. Those are the conditions to which all Pisces subjects are liable today, but they can be advised if you make up your mind that you will not allow yourself to have your peace of mind disturbed by worrying over trifles and that you will not render yourself uncomfortable, either mentally or physically—by allowing surroundings to affect you to this extent.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A pint of hot water, to which has been added a teaspoonful of borax, is an excellent cleanser for sponges.

Sometimes in cold weather windows are apt to steam when the rooms become hot. This can be obviated by applying a glycerine rag after polishing.

When cooking apples, never touch them with a steel fork or knife. A silver knife should be used and a wooden spoon or fork in stirring or pulping the food. Otherwise it will have a sharp and acid taste.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BE SURE TO READ THEM TO CHILDREN

By Blanche Silver

Betty Changes Her Mind About Her New Apron.

"WELL, of all things!" Betty Betty exclaimed as she shook out the apron her mother handed her to put on. "That's the craziest looking apron I ever saw in all my life. It's hideous, and I don't want to put it on."

"But, my dear," whispered her mamma. "Grandma gave it to you to put on, and if she hears you talking like that she'll feel dreadfully hurt."

Betty took the gay-colored apron from her mamma's hands and ran off out doors.

"I suppose I'll have to wear it, but it's hideous just the same," said Betty spread the apron out in the sunlight and looked at it. "I just despise such gaudy looking things. I should have thought Grandma would have known better than to give me such a——"

"Well, well, well!" laughed a merry voice, and Goosenback, the travel elfin, tumbled down from the branches of the tree above Betty's head. "If you don't want that gay-colored apron, I know of a little girl that would just love to have it."

A bright-faced little girl, dressed in the gayest gown Betty had ever seen, came running out to meet them. Goosenback introduced the two children and neither could say a word for gazing at the other's dress.

The bright-faced little girl wore a full-sleeved white guimpe with a bright green and red jumper, a bright blue, full skirt with a gay red, yellow, blue, green and white striped apron. The stripes were made to run around and Betty thought of her own new apron hanging on her sleeve.

"Well, I never thought a gay, gaudy apron looked so nice before," she laughed, and the little girl laughed with her.

"Oh, my! We wouldn't call that gaudy here in Sweden," the little girl said, shaking Betty's apron out and looking at it. "That's a beauty. And your grandma gave it to you? My, how proud you should be!" She tied it on Betty and danced around her, laughing all the time."

"That's a Beauty!"

"Do you want to give it to her?" Goosenback asked in a whisper. When Betty shook her head the whole scene vanished, and Betty stood in her grandma's backyard once more with the gay-colored apron on her arm.

AGGRESSIVE CHILDREN

—By Wm. A. McKeever—

IN a certain family I find a boy of fourteen who is getting more favors out of his parents than his sister of sixteen and his brother of twelve both combined.

It is all a matter of extra aggressiveness, of insistent and persistent demands and claims made by this precocious fourteen-year-old which nets him the lion's share of everything.

To oppose a combative boy usually makes him more aggressive. To flaunt him continually about his selfishness tends to multiply it. To force him to go without the things he gruffly demands is at best a negative policy. There is a better way, the way of the "New Psychology."

Throw the aggressive boy back on himself for a decision. At each time of dividing the gifts and privileges request him to state what is fair.

Have him divide the home duties so that each shall share and share equally in them. Have him decide on what would seem a just allowance of clothes and spending money and going-out privileges for each of the three.

You will see, anxious parent, that I am advocating a new self-corrective method for your selfish boy. Instead of merely grabbing his coveshare of everything and running away with it, he is now made judge or the arbiter of all his advantages and privileges, including his own.

With that same masterful manner which has led him to take more than his share, your young dispenser of justice will now support his own decisions and will be actively his own boss.

Self-correction is a sound method of education. If you can so arrange matter that your child will correct his own faults and make out his own plan of daily conduct you will lead him gradually to the position of a powerful and self-managed personality. You do not wish to suppress or destroy his aggressiveness, but rather to render it just and sympathetic.

YOUR BEAUTY

NEW SERIES OF AUTHORITATIVE ARTICLES

By Maria Jeritza

WHEN the first balmy wind whispers its message of approaching springtime most of us are seized with an irresistible desire to go out into the sunshine, along country lanes and adventure in the woodlands.

But, as one result of this delightful jaunt the blonde girl may detect groups of tiny green-brown spots on her nose and cheeks. For springtime is also freckle time.

And freckles that get an unchastructed start as early in the season may blend with the snow flare the following Winter. In fact, there are faint traces of freckles discernible on some faces the year round.

Freckles are not ugly. Artists have called them "marks of beauty;" for they usually are to be seen upon a fair, delicate skin. And some women are not annoyed because they have freckles. And these women are happy, for fighting freckles is slow work.

Direct rays of the sun cause these uneven spots of pigment to appear in many skins. Even though a girl carefully bleaches out her first crop of freckles, her next ride or walk in the sun may bring out just as many more.

So it is really wise to take a sensible view of the freckle problem, and not to permit their presence to spoil one's enjoyment of outdoor life, which is so essential to health and to beauty.

A few precautions will keep your freckles within reasonable bounds. If you freckle easily, always wear a veil or hat that shades your face when you go out into the sunshine. And avoid very short sleeves on the street unless you carry a sunshade or wear gloves. Take your swims, horseback rides or other outdoor sports either early in the morning or in the late twilight, avoiding the late noonday sun.

When you have been exposed to freckles, bathe your face with the juice of a lemon. This is too strong to leave on, so remove it at once with a standard peroxide cream, which is in itself a mild bleach.

(In her next article Maria Jeritza will tell how to keep your eyes rested.)

BEST RECIPES

Cinnamon Tea Tarts

Pastry: One egg, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ cup chopped seeded raisins. Roll out pastry into rectangular sheets about ¼ inch thick. Spread with beaten egg. Mix sugar, cinnamon and raisins and sprinkle over pastry. Cut in ½-inch strips and bake in hot oven until brown—about 10 to 15 minutes. This is an excellent way to use left-over pastry. Oils, Equipments and Steels Are Leaders in Fairly Strong Stock Market

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Some things we may expect during the near future:

Many wage demands similar to the 15 per cent. increase requested by New England cotton mills' workers, the outcome to be quite disturbing after a little while.

Decisive developments in Germany, including in all probability, drastic action by the working classes, who are now suffering acutely from the government's perilous policy of unrestrained dilution of the currency.

Many more advances in prices of goods, particularly finished articles.

At first mild, but later, pronounced discontent over the rising cost of living.

An easier trend in bonds.

An artificial stock market, with many quotations likely to be manipulated higher to facilitate unloading at stock exchanges, the more speculative industrial issues, by important interests.

Repeated warnings from banking sources against unrestrained buying, against runaway prices and against injudicious lending and borrowing.

Vice-President Coolidge is, to my opinion, an unusually thoughtful student of human nature and human affairs. Said Mr. Coolidge last week: "The only fear that may be held now is that business will go ahead too rapidly and prices go up. This is a disturbing factor, but is not likely to happen at present."

Please note the last two words, "at present."

* * *

While a business boom is unquestionably under way, the writers of both the Thin and the Bradstreet weekly trade reviews are including in languages perhaps hardly warranted by actual conditions. Read these expressions: "Industry is, with few exceptions, as near flood-tide of operations as can, labor and material supplies will permit." "The best previous records are being surpassed," in some whole industries." "There are plain signs now in some quarters of a disproportion between demand and supply."

Mid-March brought additional happenings illustrative of the progress being made by the general business. For example:

Tire manufacturers issued higher price lists.

Meanwhile, however, our vast population of food-growers are not receiving similar advances in their products. The grain markets did not do more than hold their own during the week. Pork declined and cattle showed no gain. Eggs were distinctly cheaper.

Unless the gap between the price our farming folks receive and the prices they have to pay is lessened, and lessened than increased, our business boom will not be solidly based and cannot, in the nature of things, prove lasting.

* * *

I would urge business men to talk things over with their bankers. They would suggest, too, that it might be prudent for those located in smaller places to visit their principal customers and iron it for a chat with their banker friends.

I must confess that I find rather views in banking circles than in industrial or business circles at the present moment.

Many people, some of whom ought to know better, talk and write as if a business boom would never along gloriously and last indefinitely. If everybody would only talk and act with exhilarant enthusiasm and unmitigated cheerfulness. If "whooping things up" were desirable at the stage we have now reached, I would be yelling my head off, for, as perhaps some readers of this column may recall, I was persistently "whooping things up" long before the great majority saw anything even half-way encouraging within sight.

* * *

What is needed is sane, sober reasoning around, not to say restrained, action.

Otherwise it won't.

SINCLAIR OIL IS AT NEW HIGH FOR YEAR

Oils, equipments and steels were leaders in a fairly strong New York stock market today. Sinclair Oil was active and up better than a point to a new 1923 high. Money renewed at 5 per cent.

Tops for the year were also set by Simmons Company, American Locomotive, Baldwin Locomotive, Gulf States Steel, Lima Locomotive, Moon Motor, Producers & Refiners and Philadelphia Company, up from a point to better than 2 points.

Opening prices today were strong. Baldwin Locomotive advanced 1¼ points to 143¾.

California Petroleum advanced a point. The advance in rails was led by Lackawanna, up 1¼, while steels moved into higher demand under the leadership of Crucible, up ¾.

One of the features of the early dealings was the sale of one lot of 1,000 shares of Producers & Refiners at 56, the price later advancing to 57, up 2¾, a new high record.

Peak prices also were established by American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive, Union Tank, and Associated Dry Goods. Other strong spots were General Asphalt, Mack Truck, Maxwell Motor, American Woolen, and American Linseed, all up 1 to 1¾ points.

Foreign exchanges opened strong, demand sterling advancing 2 cents to $4.70¾ and French francs rising 12 points to 6.41 cents.

Wall St. Gossip

CANADIAN Pacific for second week of March reports $189,000 decrease in income as compared with similar week last year.

OIL well producing 120,000 barrels a day, said to be most productive in world, was brought in recently at La Rosa in Maracaibo, Venezuela.

UNITED States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company take order for four miles of six-inch pipe for Tallapoosa, Ala., and about four miles of 8-inch for Canore, N. C.

WILSON & Co., Inc., and subsidiary companies for 1922 show profits of $1,122,924 after all charges. Balance for common stock of $1,598 was earned. In 1921 net loss of $5,462,032 was reported.

LIMA Locomotive is reported booked for business that will occupy it to full capacity until the end of third quarter. No dividend increase on common is planned.

AMERICAN Woolen is believed to have an inventory profit of around 2½ per cent. Stock at present prices yields above 6 per cent., and many believe its speculative chances are attractive.

MISSOURI, Kansas & Texas is reported in greatly improved earnings, and predictions are being made of long continuance of best for days for 'Katy.'

CORN Products is looked on as being now in a position that promises well sustained large earning power.

PHILLIPS Petroleum at annual April meeting will probably ask shareholders for increase in capital stock authorized to 2,000,000 shares and will be closely scrutinized in form of new stock issue.

CONTINENTAL Can earned in first quarter at rate of $10 a share for year with production but 60 per cent. of capacity.

CHESAPEAKE & Ohio dividend raise to 6 per cent. from 4 per cent. is confidently forecast. In spite of strikes, this road earned $8 a share last year and appears now to be doing even better.

Boston Notes

EASTERN Steamship, Inc., has bought from Boston Steamship Company steamers City of Rockland and Wiscasset and wharf properties from Augusta to Boothbay Harbor.

CONNECTICUT River Power Company has agreed to pay Brattleboro, Vt., $64,500 for damages in flood of 1920 when steel bridge over Connecticut River and Vernon dam was swept away. Initial claim was for over $88,000.

CONSOLIDATED Textile business for year showing continuous betterment.

SHATTUCK-Arizona Copper Co. officials believe good body ore will be developed between 100-foot level of mine and surface, it is said.

UNITED Shoe, with substantial stock dividend to be declared, no change in present plans, is not considered by secondary rating, which at June meetings has frequently supplemented regular dividends.

WARREN Bros. management expects to be able to continue common dividend at the $3 rate recently inaugurated.

CALUMET & Hecla, by increase in smelting charges from 100,000 to 1,000,000, should increase their popularity as trading units.

HENDEE officials are confident of business of a satisfactory character for Spring and Summer months.

ARTHUR Holden and shoe find-ings have advanced. Endicott Johnson has an advantage in tanning practically all the leather which it uses.

INTERNATIONAL Cement officials believe trade conditions in Uruguay next three years would be responsive of what can be expected this year. Company has duty protection there which has enabled South American plant to make a fair showing of earnings.

HERE'S WINNER WITH RADIO WRINKLE

An easily-constructed vernier variometer wins the $6.50 worth of radio apparatus this week.

A vernier variometer, let it be known, is a tiny edition of a regular variometer, and is connected in series with the latter.

Two pieces of thin wood, three inches by one inch, have a single hole bored in the centre of each. On their ends are mounted small silk spools, which are about half inch thick, so that the two sticks may be set up with very few of spools end to end. Wind a few turns of No. 24 wire on each spool, and connect the four spools in series.

The shaft is mounted so that one set of spools may revolve as the dial is turned, while the other set remains stationary. A piece of flexible wire joins the movable spools on one side to the binding post and on the other to the stationary spools.

TRAVEL BRIEFS

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

"Railroad Night" will be observed by the Traffic Club of New England at a dinner at Copley-Plaza on Tuesday evening. Elisha Lee, vice-president of the Pennsylvania, will be one of the speakers. His subjects will be: A—"Policies of the P. R. R. Dealing With Its Employes and the Measure of Success Thereby Achieved"; and B—"How Operating Men View Their Obligations to Meet the Needs and Interests of the Shippers." The other speaker will be George T. Atkins, freight traffic manager M. K. & T. Railway, whose subject will be: "Relations of Traffic Department to Present Day Transportation Problems." Entertainment will be furnished by the Merrymount Double Mals Quartet and the Colonial Singing Orchestra. A number of prominent railroad and traffic men have been invited, including many prominent officials of the Pennsylvania system.

MT. RAINIER VIEWS SHOWN

T. H. Martin, general manager of the Mount Rainier National Park Company, entertained several hundred passenger traffic men from the various local railroad offices at a luncheon at the City Club Saturday. Following the luncheon, stereopticon views and movie reels of Mt. Rainier National Park were shown. The arrangements were in charge of George E. Marsters of the Marsters Tourist Agency.

PRESENT WATCH TO LYONS

Business was suspended at the office of the Consolidated Ticket office on Franklin street, for a brief period Friday, while the members of the organization and a number of well known business men gathered to felicitate Raymond E Lyons, for four years a member of the office staff, upon his appointment as city passenger agent of the Great Northern Railway. Charles F. Arnold, New Haven ticket agent, on behalf of the B. & A., B. & M., New Haven and Fall River Line employes extended the congratulations and presented Mr. Lyons with a number of gold watch, as a token of the esteem in which he was held by his associates.

Mr. Lyons entered upon his new duties with the Great Northern on Saturday.

LIPPMAN A VISITOR.

George W. Lippman, of the passenger department of the Southern Pacific Company, with headquarters in San Francisco, is visiting a few days calling upon friends in Boston. He is registered at Hotel Touraine.

THRU-CAR DISCONTINUED.

The thru-car service from Boston to St. Petersburg, which has been operated by the Seaboard Air Line Railroad since January 1, was discontinued Thursday, March 16. Ordinarily the service would have been continued by March 1, or earlier, but the heavy traffic to Florida points for the early part of March warranted its continuance for a fortnight longer than originally planned.

The north-bound thru-car service from St. Petersburg to Boston will be maintained, however, until April 1.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE FETE.

The feast of St. Jean Baptiste will be celebrated in Montreal with a three-day festival on June 22, 23 and 24, on a scale never before attempted, according to information received at the office of W. R. Eastman, general passenger agent of the Canadian National Railways. Historical pageants will feature the celebrations, such as that of June 24, portraying Jacques Cartier's arrival in Quebec, when Indian village of Hochelage will be reconstructed at the foot of Mount Royal with its inhabitants in the authentic costumes of the period. The actual life of the natives will be reproduced as nearly as possible, including war dances, and possibly an assault by a hostile tribe and the setting on fire of the settlement.

On June 24 a field day will be held and the program provides for baseball, and lacrosse games, as well as motorcycle and automobile races. There will also be aeroplane flights and a review in Lafontaine Park of French American regiments and Pontifical Zouaves of Montreal. The traditional St. Jean's bonfire will be fired.

Coming right at the beginning of the tourist season it is expected that large numbers of New Englanders will take advantage of this extra inducement to visit Montreal.

Coming right at the beginning of the tourist season it is expected that large numbers of New Englanders will take advantage of this extra inducement to visit Montreal.

MANY BOSTONIANS ON CRUISE.

Among the passengers who sailed from New York Saturday on the liner Tolna of the United Fruit Company for a visit of nine days' cruise to Cuba, Jamaica, Panama and Costa Rica were the following from Boston:

Mr. George F. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Carter, Mr. Walter S. Schmidt, Mr. Titus, Mrs. Kaddis H. Burleigh, Mrs. Jennie Flood, Mr. Lewis G. Burleigh, Mr. Lewis A. Burleigh, Jr., Mr. L. P. Osborne, Mr. W. F. Porter, Mrs. A. William Sperry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gammons, Miss Arlotta M. Porter, Miss Evelyn G. Morrison, Miss Marian Cook, Mr. A. J. La Bonte, Miss Betty J. Dayton, Mr. Lynch and Mr. George A. Nicols.

LENTEN MENU A NOVELTY

Railroads are generally considered soulless corporations, indifferent to the needs of, if not the comfort, of those who are forced to use its transportation facilities. The action of the Great Northern Railway in providing special meatless Lenten menus on the dining car service of its "Oriental Limited" and other trains is a noteworthy step forward in consideration of the public.

And the fare offered proves that somebody connected with the Great Northern is not only alive to the good-will value of permitting those who desire to observe the strict regulations of Lent to do so pleasurably, but is also an artist on tempting appetites that are possibly jaded by continued abstinence from fresh meat. A special "Egg Menu" is provided. The menu card itself is very artistically gotten up on a light blue background with white embossed chickens and eggs as a decorative motive. A variety of egg dishes are listed with the recipes for each. Eggs Creole, Country Style. Chopped onions, bacon cut in dice shape, raw potatoes, salad, sauce all in butter—use as filler for three-egg plain omelet."

The other recipes are equally attractive, and no requests have been received for extra copies, that reproductions have been printed and distributed to the branch offices throughout the United States. New England Passenger Agent John H. Kenney has a supply which will be sent to those who call for them at the office, Room No. 18, Old South Building.

Woman's Vanity Is Useful

Remember That When She Makes You Late for the Theatre

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

We'll waste no time in proving that women, from the cradle to the grave, at all hours and all ages, are sincerely interested in their personal appearance.

No man should object to this—the constitutional guarantee referring to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness covers the ground fully.

But it is not enough for men NOT TO OBJECT to woman's various innocent vanities.

Every man should be delighted that women are vain. Each man should do what can to keep the vanity alive.

FOR WOMAN'S VANITY, DEARLY BELOVED, IS THE ONE AND INDISPENSABLE PRESERVER OF HER HEALTH.

A woman cannot be pretty according to her own notions unless she is HEALTHY.

If she is too fat, she is not pretty—and she is miserable until, through self-control, she gets thin.

If she is too thin, she is not pretty. At present she has a crazy sort of idea that to be "skinny" is to be attractive. That is a passing delusion. In the long run women realize that there is nothing beautiful about a female living skeleton, and they strive through normal living to become normal.

Above all, no woman can have a good complexion unless she is in good health and lives normally. This one absorbing question of complexion does more for woman's health, it gives us more strong mothers and more sensible girls than all the preachings, beseechings, prayers and expostulations of all the world's male advisers.

A woman's instinct is to eat buckwheat cakes, adding boiling hot coffee and iced water. She likes to eat candy between meals, and her idea of a fine luncheon is lobster salad and ice cream. But small spots appear. These fine pink checks get too pink or too pale and sensible eating is adopted as a life rule.

Even the hideous corset squeezing is counteracted by the power of complexion. Woman likes to look like a wasp, and if she could she would move her poor system all out of place for the sake of a waist hideously small.

But, providentially, a waist squeezed too mercilessly gives a bright pink tip to the end of the nose, and for the sake of the color of that nosetip the poor waist gets a rest—the corset is let out.

It cannot be denied that among idle, nervous women today there is a tendency to take stimulants to excess, and even to smoke.

Do not, therefore, O men, despise the vanity of women. Praise and cherish it rather. Be grateful that nature works in a wonderful way through the power of attraction, making women do for good looks' sake that which is most important to her welfare.

If you want to cure your wife or some other female relative of lacing, don't moralize. Say to her six or seven times:

"Isn't the end of your nose a little red?"

If she acts in any way unwisely, staying up too late, living foolishly, trying the silly and unwomanly habit of smoking, don't criticize the habit.

Criticize her complexion, or the look of her eyes, or her general lack of youthfulness. She will soon be cured, if you can follow this advice astutely.

Counsel in Great Cause

It is not a popular cause among those with whom Messrs. Hill and Thompson have their professional contact. But it is a great cause, and they are great spirited who undertake it under the circumstances. We have always known that Mr. Hill was that kind of a man. We confess to surprise concerning Mr. Thompson. If this is typical of Mr. Thompson's courage and public spirit, we must revise our opinion and we cannot be more pleased to do anything than to do this. We pay our respects to both these gentlemen and wish them well in their efforts.

To Control Water—

Its Loss, Waste and Power

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

National and State governments of this country spend about a hundred million dollars a year on the river and harbor improvements of various kinds, according to a competent engineer.

Losses continue, floods and droughts alternating. There is no systematic planning, no intelligent effort by the representatives of all the people to solve the water problem, floods, irrigation, drainage and the rest as it affects all of the people.

Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana, introduced a bill to establish a national hydraulic laboratory, to prevent waste, stop loss of life and property and control rivers and other bodies of water. It is a good bill. The work should be in charge of competent engineers, not in charge of some lawyer needing a job, knowing nothing about a river except that you get wet if you fall into it.

Save Beach for Children

We sympathize with the fight which the Boston Post is making to save Magazine Beach to the children of Cambridge who use it for swimming and for general play in the Summer. The idleness of the long Summer months, its heat and the congestion of the city present to society a serious problem concerning boys and girls. Every kind of athletics, outdoor exercise and sport which the children can be induced to participate in generally is so much taken away from the temptations of the devil's workshop.

Sports are generally too much confined to the ablest among our children. We have not developed sports as we ought to dovelop them in which all can take part. Swimming and the fun in the water in the Summer time is a sport in which all can participate.

Let us constantly seek ways and means of enlarging the opportunity of this sport in the Summer and under no circumstances where it can be avoided should it be restricted,

SCHOOL FOR "MIMIS" IN PARIS

PARIS, March 19.—"A university for Mimi Pinson is what is needed in Paris today," writes Emile Faure, general counsellor of the Department of the Seine, in Le Journal.

For the demoiselle du monde there are universities and schools a-plenty, literary societies and clubs where one hears good music. But how can Mimi Pinson, the little working girl, and her many sisters, fill in their long evenings? "The cinema and the dance hall take too much of their time," continues Monsieur Faure. "They, too, have the right to a minimum of artistic education and wholesome pleasure."

The counsellor proposes to establish evening classes in music and literature, as well as dressmaking, millinery, bookkeeping and stenography, etc.

Women and Poll Tax

Editor Boston American:

It is gratifying to see that a woman has reasoned out the poll tax for women question to its logical conclusion, viz: That a hardship would be worked on the married man, who holds the purse in the average family, to have to pay a double tax. Politicians jump at the conclusion that equality means a poll tax for each. When the woman supports the family, as many do support their husbands, and why not if better able physically and mentally? then the double burden would come on her. As to single persons, struggling, perhaps to keep the home and with other obligations, no extra burden of taxation should exist.

L. DANIELS.

Absconding Banker

Editor Boston American:

I wish to say a few words about the Italian banker who has swindled so many poor people out of their hard-earned money. When the arm of the law reaches out and captures him I hope he will receive the full punishment. It was the Italian people who started him in business and helped him to establish himself, and then he turns around and double-crosses his own people. Men like him should not be let into this country. The Italian people should be more careful in the near future where they deposit their money, not in a bank that is unprotected by the State. Things like this are not new and the people should watch their step. We can imagine how some of the poor people feel that had their life savings swept away.

WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF WISE MEN

The only enemies we have are those we conjure forth from our own inner consciousness.

That which causes us to lose most of our time is the repugnance which we naturally have to labor.

* * *

If we hope for things of which we have not thoroughly considered the value, our disappointment will be greater than our pleasure in the fruition of our hopes.

A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying in other words that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.

THE HELPING HAND

Will Help Them

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you send me the addresses of the following persons who have asked for articles: M. M. M., who asked for fancy work magazines; Anna and Helen, Mrs. G. N., and Mrs. F. A. R. With very best wishes for the success of the Helping Hand. A. R. B.

ED. NOTE—These addresses will be sent you with our best wishes.

Bountiful Giver

Editor Helping Hand:

I have sent Mrs. S. in Vermont a large box of clothes, express paid, which has been gratefully acknowledged. We are still waiting the address of Mrs. M. M., as we have a good bundle ready for her. The three boxes of clothing we have sent covers the three addresses you have already sent us.

MRS. M. A. H.

ED. NOTE—So much work has been heaped upon the stenographer by the rapid growth of the Helping Hand, that she is sometimes a few days behindhand in sending letters. We have called in more help, however, and I think you will receive the address you mention in a few days, if it has not already arrived.

Newsboy in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please try to find me a pair of overshoes or rubber boots? I have to carry papers to help my mamma. My father is dead. I am eleven years old, and get my feet wet every night, and can't afford to get them myself. Please help me. I could use clothes, too. I wear size 3 or 4 in overshoes.

J. M. M.

Wants Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am greatly in need of clothes for myself and children. I have two small girls, two and three years old, and I expect another in July. I am in delicate health, and as my husband makes only small wages, it makes it very hard for me to get along. I need clothes for myself as well as the children. I am only twenty years old and small.

G. K.

For the Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

If you will please send me the address of Agnes, I will personally buy some clothes for the baby.

A. E. B.

ED. NOTE—That will be very kind. Her address will be sent you.

In Great Trouble

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if some of your readers would have some baby clothes, also some clothes for a woman, size about 42, especially underclothes. This lady is my sister. She has had a great deal of trouble this Winter and has just buried her little girl, aged two years.

A. E. C.

Would Appreciate Anything

Editor Helping Hand:

I have read of your good work in the paper. My husband has been in the war and is not well, so he cannot work steadily. My little girls, aged three and five, are badly in need of clothes, and I would greatly appreciate anything that can be sent.

MRS. M. D.

To Furnish Home

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young mother with an eight-weeks-old boy and a boy of three years. I am trying to make a warm and comfortable home for my children, but we have been sick most of the Winter. My husband is away and I am getting mother's aid, but it is just enough to live on. I've lost most of my furnishings, but still have enough to furnish a kitchenette and a bed and crib. I would be grateful for any furnishings, some woolen blankets for the baby, some kind of floor covering, or anything to make a home for my children. I would do sewing in my spare time, and have a few magazines I will be glad to give to someone.

C. L.

Boy Wants Dog

Editor Helping Hand:

I would appreciate it very much if I could get a bird dog for my boy. He had a black and tan one, but it got killed, and I never saw a boy feel so bad. A mate or female, it make no difference. He would be willing to pay the express, as he has been saving his money doing errands.

M. C. Q.

Boy of Ten Needs Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

I have written before asking if someone had any children's clothes or a coat for a boy ten years old. I have six little ones, and my husband has been sick a great deal this Winter. We find it hard to get enough to eat, let alone any clothes. My little boy that is ten had to stay home from school all week as his clothes are not fit to wear and he has no shoes or rubbers. I would be glad to make anything over. I have another little boy four and four girls, nine, seven, five and sixteen months.

MRS. J. C.

ED. NOTE—We wish we could answer each appeal as it came in, but good as our many kind correspondents are that is impossible.

Offer of Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have quite a few bands, shirts, jackets, dresses, stockings, shoes and a knitted robe for a new-born baby, and a pair of white buckskin shoes and pair of rubbers for a child two or two and a half.

M. E. C.

ED. NOTE—Mrs. J. D., who has a girl two and expects a baby soon, will be notified of your kind offer. Many thanks.

For Two-Year-Old

Editor Helping Hand:

Of the braces with shoes that Mrs. E. M. offered have not been given away. I would be so glad to have them for my baby, who is just two years old. I would gladly pay the charges to have them sent.

MRS. E. J. M.

ED. NOTE—You will be put in touch with Mrs. E. M.

VERSAILLES TREATY BECOMES ANOTHER SCRAP OF PAPER

By Herbert Kaufman

NAPOLEON returns from St. Helena. Poincare speaks with a despot's voice. France is again in the mood of 1804.

She now defies world opinion with an official statement that no interference will be permitted in the Ruhr.

The Versailles Treaty becomes another scrap of paper. Germany's goose will be cooked strictly a la Francaise and on self-provided coals.

No mention is made of the unpaid billions provided by America—also it seems to be handled strictly a la Francaise.

No mention, either, of the six marines who tore a young girl from the side of her fiance and successively mistreated her. Noble defenders of civilization.

Hodgetts tells us that Bonaparte broke open the coffin of Frederick the Great, appropriated his sword, vandalized Potsdam, slept in Queen Louise's bed, "savagely ripped off a piece of the lining of the great Frederick's writing desk and actually stole the dead King's billiard cue."

There's an Optimist for You

More executions. Further seizures. The last desperate program. Mussolini sticks to Rome and his knitting, and Monsieur Clemenceau is not revisiting America this Spring.

Lord Robert Cecil will, however, come to tell us why we should join the League of Nations. There's an optimist for you!

He has a nice little plan for a neutral corridor between France and Germany. All the great powers will guarantee its integrity. A distinguished colonial statesman of whom his lordship has doubtless heard, insisted that there was no way to judge the future except by the past.

Belgium, if one remembers rightly, was also a neutral corridor. It can't be done.

Some Business That Needs Minding

More than half of every dollar you paid out for income taxes will be used to pay off war expenses. Let's go right back to Europe and mind some more foreign business.

The price of building materials has risen 25 per cent. since December. Bonar Law's Cabinet was almost driven from office for not providing cheaper housing. Britain handles such matters better than America. They don't sell culm and painted rock for fuel over there. Which suggests some business that does need minding here.

Also the case of young Braithwaite, who left all his face on a battlefield and can't get a forty-dollar allowance to hire substitute eyes. Colonel Forbes thought it would tend to dull initiative if he had a companion.

How They Go Up and Down

Georgia's boy killer won't hang. Governor Hardwick will commute his sentence to life imprisonment. A later administration will go farther. "In making laws vigor is indispensable, in executing them, mercy." The Chinese are better philosophers than fighters.

Prince Lichnowsky, late German Ambassador to Great Britain, becomes manager of a Baden cigarette factory, while Sir William Goode, chief of the Austrian reparations section, former buck private at San Francisco, then journalist, and himself a cigarette salesman when the Prince was dining at Buckingham, is mentioned among several possible future Ministers plenipotentiary to the United States. How they do go up and down.

Nurses and Kitchen Maids at State Expense

The Burchell bill under discussion at Albany provides for the payment of $6.50 a week for the support and maintenance of adopted State wards. Miss Mary Tinney, general charity inspector for New York city, finds the measure full of ominous possibilities. Anybody can.

She opposes the farming out of minors to irresponsible persons, who may thereby obtain kitchen aids, child nurses and boy lackeys at community expense. She has her eye on five bachelors who recently took some very young girls to raise.

Hardly a bill to be passed in a hurry.

Not Much Regularity in His Life

He worked to the very end, traveled a million and a half miles in thirty-five years and averaged three nights a week on the sleepers.

Gulped meals, indiscriminate food, abrupt changes of temperature—not much calm or regularity in his career.

Most of Us Get What We're Worth

Most everybody deserves his place and pay. The scales on which ability is weighed seldom cheat. If you want to improve your position start by improving yourself. Mere length of service is not a valid reason for a salary increase, especially if practice has not improved performance.

Why should you have more this year for running an elevator or digging a ditch or selling goods, if you don't run the elevator better or dig a ditch more quickly or turn in more orders than last year?

On the other hand, the moment you display enterprise your employer must in self-defence make compensation match your further ability. He knows that his competitor will if he won't. There isn't nearly so much injustice in the business world as slackers and incompetents would have us believe. Underdogs generally aren't trying to get on top.

Please Page Old King Coal

America is loath to interfere with the business of its citizens.

But since certain gentlemen who specialize in common necessities have grown so predacious, arrogant and contemptuous of public rights, we are apt to take charge of their enterprises and impose conditions which will knock some of the bulge out of their brazen bank balances.
